DEDICATION OF the $180,000 Shady Acres Church of Christ, 1440 Ables Road, was held Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Shady Acres Church of Christ Dedicated

Dedication services of the Shady Acres Church of Christ, 1440 Ables Road, were at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Willard Collins, vice-president of David Lipscomb College, Nashville, told his audience, "The hour is urgent. In America we are taking sacred things and making them profane. The name of God is reviled and corrupted, we have made His name a curse word."

The welcome address was given by Don C. Glover, minister of the church, with a scripture reading by J. R. James, church elder.

A prayer was given by Cletus Lemmons, minister of Crowder Church of Christ. The builder, Bill Reed, Lubbock, Tex., spoke.

Song service was led by Jimmy O. Miller, minister, Northside Church of Christ. The benediction was given by E. A. Hanks, elder of the church.

In his subject of "The Need of This Hour -- Keeping Sacred Things Sacred," he stressed five points: the name of God, human life, marriage, ownership of property and respect for parents.

Collins said, "You cannot control young people in the school because you cannot control them in the home, and until this is done the blame for decline of the home is on the parents."

Collins said, "Unless we keep sacred things sacred, our country and our people will be destroyed."

DON C. GLOVER, pastor, stands in the pulpit of the Shady Acres Church of Christ.

Jackson Woman Dies In 3-Vehicle Crash

A Jackson woman died as a result of a three-vehicle collision Sunday at 8:45 p.m. during heavy fog on Interstate 55, five miles south of Scott City.

She was Mrs. Joseph Harvey, 59, Jackson, passenger in a 1968 Cadillac, driven by her husbnad, 59.

The couple was returning from a visit with relatives and friends in Sikeston. Harvey received fractured ribs and an arm and head injury. Five others were injured in the crash.

The vehicles were traveling north on Interstate 55. Involved were the Cadillac, a 1962 Chevrolet, driven by Estel Walls, 23, Chicago, and a 1963 Chevrolet truck - trailer, driven by Lonnie Millner, 27, Charleston.

According to the highway patrol, the speeding Harvey car ran in the left rear of the Millner trailer-truck, causing the Harvey car to spin around where it was struck headon by the Chevrolet driven by Walls.

Others injured were Walls, and three passengers, Odie Keith, 24, Portageville, fractured ankle and hand bruises, Ronnie Forrester, 18, and Lois Forrster, 18, both of St. Louis, each receiving a back injury. Millner, driver of the truck-trailer, received a chest injury.

The injured were taken to the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Harvey, the former Helen M. McCombs, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McCombs, president of the Cape County Milling Company in Jackson.

Her body was removed to the McCombs Funeral Home in Jackson.

Saturday two miles west of Wyatt on route JJ, the patrol reported that Frank Ware, Charleston, left his 1961 Ford, after he ran off the highway and struck a utility pole.

A passenger, James Greer, 19, Wyatt, received cuts on his face.

Saturday at 3:30 p.m. on highway 160, five were injured when a 1967 Chevrolet, driven by Frank Seeburger, 60, Dexter, made a left turn into the side of a 1962 Oldsmobile, driven by Russell Richmond, 43, Dyersburg, Tenn.

Injured were, Seeburger, with cuts on his chin. In the Richmond car the injured were the driver, cuts on face, and three passengers. Gary Richmond, 12, eye injury; Randy Richmond, 9, cuts on face and possible skull fracture and chest injury; and Marthy Richmond, 35, a bruised arm. They were taken to the Doctors hospital in Poplar Bluff. Seeburger was arrested on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

Sunday at 5:25 p.m., on highway 60, three miles east of Wyatt, five persons injured in a two-car collision.

A 1959 Ford driven by Raymond Burton, 44, Charleston stalled on the road and was struck in the rear by a 1957 Chevrolet, driven by Willie Harris, 24, Chicago. Injured in the Harris car were the driver, minor cuts. A passenger, Barbara Harris, 3, daughter of the driver, was seriously injured with broken legs.

Injured in the Burton car were Mary Burton, 42, Charleston, and two children, Raymond 10, and Teresa Burton, 7, cut and bruised.

The injured were taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Known Dead Reaches 16, 41 Listed As Missing in Bridge Disaster

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — Working in a light rain, a water-borne crane probing the Ohio River's depths latched on to a crumpled car early today and brought up three more bodies in the grim search for victims of Friday's bridge collapse.

They brought to 16 the number of known dead. There were 41 persons reported missing.

The car was one of scores of vehicles that tumbled like playtoys off the bridge when the suspension span collapsed into the murky river.

The bodies of two adults and a child pried out of the car's twisted metal remains were taken to a temporary morgue in a state armory.

They were not immediately identified.

Sitting on a barge in the river, the crane also pulled up one huge chunk of the bridge superstructure this morning. It was placed on the barge. It was believed that superstructure pieces were being hauled up in an effort to reach vehicles trapped under the debris.

The 1,500-foot-wide section of the river between Ohio and West Virginia yielded eight bodies from four cars and a truck when the derricks pulled them out Sunday. The other five bodies were recovered Friday, a few hours after the suspension bridge collapsed under the weight of rush hour and Christmas shoppers' traffic.

Forecast of more than one inch of rain for the Point Pleasant area brought with it the fear that the river's level would rise and increase its current. This would seriously hamper divers in their efforts to reach cars crushed under the bridge's superstructure.

Of the 13 dead, only one remained unidentified. That was the body of a man taken from the cab of a trailer-truck yanked from the river Sunday afternoon.

The big 40-year-old bridge, a major link between the two states, crumpled into the Ohio River 80 feet below just after 5 p.m. Friday. The center span of the bridge disappeared, leaving only the approach ramps on both sides and concrete piers jutting above the river's surface.

Max Ray, a commercial deep sea diver from New Orleans, said that "you've got to worry about metal falling on you."

Ray spent several hours in the river's murky depths Sunday and said "it's real hairy and dangerous down there. You can't see your hand on the face plate of your mask. It's so dark, pitch black."

The tangled mass of the bridge's superstructure, lying atop the cars and trucks in 40 feet of water "is so shaky I could move the beams by hand. I dropped through the mess of steel and it started to slide," Ray said.

Another problem stemming from the disaster was that river traffic along the Ohio was choked and backed up for miles. Col. William D. Falck of the Army engineers estimated that 60,000 tons of cargo was stalled because the river was closed above and below Point Pleasant.

The cars pulled from the water Sunday reflected the tremendous impact which existed when the span collapsed. All were torn and smashed. The engine dropped from one as it was lifted. The top of another, which held two bodies, was peeled off.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said traffic on Route 7, which parallels the river for miles, was backed up for 4½ miles Sunday afternoon. Troopers estimated the crowds of the curious at between 10,000 and 15,000. But all were kept away from the river's edge so as not to hamper the search.

U.S. Rep. Ken Hechler, D. W.Va., who represents the area, toured the site for a second time late Sunday and said the reason for the bridge's collapse "may never be known."

The congressman is making frequent trips here to speed up the federal aid process and act as a semi-official liaison with the White House.

"The immediate need is to establish a traffic link between Point Pleasant and Gallipolis," he said. "The economic implications of this disaster are staggering.

"We're trying to get the New York Central Railroad to establish a shuttle service on the railroad bridge (about one-quarter mile north of the disaster site) and we're also trying to arrange for a ferry."

The question of indemnity also arose. West Virginia owns the Ohio River to the Ohio shoreline and probes were being made to determine responsibility.

Soviets Boast U.S. Fooled by Falsified Data

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet secret police boasted today they had outwitted the United States with false information about military strength. The U.S. Embassy said the Russians were indulging in "fabrications."

The KGB— the Committee for State Security— said it captured a spy named Afonov who was working for U.S. intelligence. It asserted it used his radio apparatus and secret dispatches to transmit misleading data about the location of troops, defense bases and the submarine fleet.

"Apart from attempting to glorify the Chekists— from the old KGB name of Chek— on their anniversary, the article seems to be part of a series of Soviet fabrications regarding alleged Western and particularly U.S. espionage," the embassy said in a statement.

KGB also said in an interview in Pravda on the 50th anniversary of the organization that two U.S. military attaches had been caught snooping at a military installation.

It charged that Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Bathurst, U.S. assistant naval attache, and Lt. Col. Robert E. Liichow, assistant Army attache, "went up directly to a military object and imprudently peered through the fence." It said they were apprehended on the spot and taken away.

The embassy reported that the incident occurred in June of last year at Orsha, a town about 300 miles west of Moscow. It said "they were briefly detained, but the accusations against them were without foundation.

Both attaches left the Soviet Union last spring at the end of normal tours of duty.

In another development, the government newspaper Izvestia presented Harold A. K. Philby, British master spy, as a hero in the cause of communism.

Philby fled to the Soviet Union in 1963 after holding high positions in the British Intelligence Service and gaining access in Washington to many of the secrets of the Central Intelligence Agency.

In the Pravda article, the KGB claimed it was more than a match for Western intelligence.

Service Station Robbed Twice

MINER --- A cash register valued at $350 and about $250 in cash and checks were taken between 4 a.m. and 5 a.m. Sunday from Hart's Standard Service Station, Ray Hart, manager, said.

Robert Simmons, station attendant who was working a double shift, slept through the theft.

Two motorists had filled their own gas tanks and left without paying between 2 a.m. and 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

An attendant at a Saveway Station across Highway 62 East, from Hart's at 2:30 a.m. wakened Simmons Sunday and told him he saw two motorists help themselves to gasoline and leave. He had the license number of one of the cars.

Simmons fell asleep again and was awakened by a man who delivers the morning paper at 4:30 a.m. Sunday.

When Simmons went to get a quarter to pay for the paper he discovered the cash register was gone. Scott County authorities are investigating.

Arrest Seven in Weekend; 4 Thefts, 2 Accidents

George A. Parr, Bertrand, was charged at 2:02 a.m. Sunday with exceeding the speed limit on East Malone.

Leeton J. Potts, Malden, was charged with careless and imprudent driving at 6:45 p.m. Saturday. The car he was driving collided with a vehicle driven by Mrs. Letha S. Harris, 101 East Center, near the A & B Oil Co. 1631 East Malone, police said. Potts was westbound on Malone, made a left turn and struck the eastbound Harris car, police reported.

J. E. Woods, Benton, was charged by police Friday with driving while intoxicated on Young Street.

Jimmy W. Powers, 415 Illinois, was charged with assault and battery Friday.

Leonard R. Lett, 916 Lynn, and Hueits S. Copeland, 144 Cardinal, were each charged Friday with careless and imprudent driving.

Wayne Wright, route two, Sikeston, reported to police at 4:10 p.m. Sunday that a 12 gauge shotgun was taken from his residence.

Roland Sparks, an employe of Otasco, reported to police at 6:39 p.m. Saturday that a radio - tape recorder valued at $80 was taken from the store Saturday evening.

Franklin Struwe, 120 Maplewood Dr., reported to police at 8:30 a.m. today that his son's glasses were taken last Monday from the high school shower room.

Charles White, 411 Missouri, reported to police at 9:16 a.m. today that a dark brown transistor radio was taken from a Lewis Sales Co. truck Saturday afternoon while it was parked on West Malone.

All the dogs at the city pound had been turned loose when the humane officer checked the pen at 9:42 a.m. today. All pens had been broken open. The pound is at the city dump.

Nackie A. Taylor, East Prairie, reported to police at 3:55 p.m. Saturday that a car struck the rear of her vehicle at Malone and Main. The other car backed up and left the scene, police reported.

Man Accused of Two Robberies Escapes

CHARLESTON -- A Hickman, Ky., man who escaped from federal court at St. Louis Friday morning is still at large, Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons said today.

William Howard Dunn, 46, charged with armed robbery of the Dorena post office and Citizens Bank of Gerald in September, walked out of court and was last seen Friday morning walking in downtown St. Louis.

About $1,000 in cash and stamps was taken in the Dorena robbery and $99,000 in the bank robbery.

Mental Health Plea Presented

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri is moving ahead in the field of mental health, the House Appropriations Committee learned today, but not as fast as it could if more money were available.

The Division of Mental Diseases asked for a total allotment of $106,634,000. Gov. Warren E. Hearnes cut that to $71,965,000— almost $7 million more than the agency got this year.

Included in the total budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 is $65,231,000 for operations, compared with a request of $70,473,000.

But the big cut came in capital improvements. The division asked $36,161,000 but the governor trimmed that to $6,734,000— including a new juvenile treatment center at Fulton State Hospital.

Included in the request was $1,083,000 to expand the treatment of the estimated 160,000 Missouri alcoholics who need help. Eight alcoholism centers are operating now— one at each of the five state hospitals and the three intensive care centers.

The governor recommended $678,000 for this program.

About $150,000 of the money would be used to set up detoxification centers in urban areas such as the one now operating in St. Louis and establish rural referral and followup centers elsewhere to take care of the "town drunks" who are known as occupants of "skid row" in the cities.

The new alcoholism program has made "substantial gains" in its first year, the committee was told.

Another $2 million was requested for community mental health centers, to be matched by an equal amount of federal funds.

Dr. George A. Ulett, mental health director, reported such centers are "ready to go" at Joplin and Mexico as soon as federal money becomes available. He said several other cities have started preliminary work on such programs.

The division also sought $3.5 million to place hospital patients in nursing, foster care and their own family homes when they are ready for community life. The governor allowed $3.1 million for this program.

Ulett said patients can be cared for at about one-third the cost outside the state hospitals. He estimated the money recommended would enable about 4,000 to be placed in such outside environments and an estimated 2,000 more could be placed outside eventually.

Later today the committee planned to hear requests of individual institutions.

Two Small Boys Killed by Dogs

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) -- A pack of German shepherd dogs attacked and killed two small boys Sunday while their father fought futilely to save them by clubbing the animals with a rake.

The attack, near a creek behind the victims' home in nearby Madison Heights, included two neighborhood dogs the boys apparently had played with before.

The victims were Gene Anthony Goodman, 4, and Kenneth Goodman, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Goodman of Madison Heights.

Madison and his wife are in Lunchburg General Hospital where they are being treated for shock.

Family Loses Belongings In Fire

A fire believed to have started from a stove gutted a two apartment small wood house early Sunday at 332 Petty Street. No one was injured.

Firemen fought the fire and cleaned up till 10:45 p.m. The house, now unfit for occupancy, is owned by the Sikeston Compress.

It was occupied by Horace House and the Eugene Neal family.

The Neal family moved in temporarily with Mrs. Neal's mother, Mary Townsend, 359 Magnolia. They have three children ages 2, 1, six months old. All the family belongings were lost in the fire.

Horace House is a widower who occupied the other side of the apartment.

Cherry is the undisputed leader among flavors for medicinal preparations.

At least 22 per cent of the nation's annual perfume sales occur in December.

Two Thefts In Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF -- An undetermined amount of cigarettes were stolen from the William Evans home in Poplar Bluff Saturday night, the highway patrol reported.

Evans is an agent with the Anderson-Clark Distributing Co.

Two pistols, a Polaroid camera, eight wrist and pocket watches and $3 in cash were reported stolen from the Budweiser Tavern Saturday in Poplar Bluff.

Man Posing As FBI Agent Takes Billfold

EAST PRAIRIE -- A 21-year-old East Prairie man is in county jail at Charleston, charged with stealing a billfold Friday night.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons charged that Jerry Wayne Adams walked up to a car occupied by Jim Henry of East Prairie and said:

"I am an FBI agent and I want to see your billfold and driver's license."

Henry told authorities that Adams took the billfold, pushed him out of the car and left. The billfold contained $65.

Adams was picked up Saturday night at East Prairie.

Armed Robbery Nets $167

An armed robbery Sunday afternoon of The Quick Shop on South Main netted $167 for a lone gunman.

Mrs. Donna Standridge, manager, reported the incident to police at 2:20 p.m. Sunday.

A man described as between 18 and 20 years old with long blond hair held a gun on Mrs. Standridge and demanded all the paper money and money orders, she told police.

The man left on foot walking around the north side of the building. Mrs. Standridge said she did not see nor hear an automobile.

The same man had been in the store at about 11 a.m. Sunday and had purchased a pack of cigarettes, Mrs. Standridge said.

A man working in his garage near the store told police he saw a man with long bond hair drive out of his driveway in a hurry at about the time of the holdup He was driving a 1967 or 68 Thunderbird. Police are investigating.

Helicopters Search for Indians Isolated by Snow

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) -- Air Force helicopters were out over the Navajo Reservation today searching for Indians marooned by snow up to four feet deep.

One helicopter flew an aerial weather survey from this tribal headquarters village near the New Mexico border to Chinle, about 60 miles northwest.

The helicopter, with a medical corpsman aboard, then was sent to Pine Springs southwest of Window Rock where 6-8 Navajos were reported suffering from frost bite. A helicopter from Chinle was sent to Rough Rock where another 5-6 Navajos were reported in need of medical care.

Skies over the reservation appeared to be clearing, at least temporarily, raising hopes other helicopters could get into the air to survey other areas.

Another exposure death, a 2-year-old Indian boy, was reported at an isolated hogan seven miles north of U.S. 66 and about 15 miles west of the New Mexico border.

Bureau of Indian Affairs officials estimated 60,000 Navajos are in varying degrees of distress from the storm that struck the reservation last Tuesday night.

Air Force cargo planes and helicopters were prepared to drop food, shelter, clothes and medical supplies for the Indians. Doctors were to accompany the helicopters.

"The first thing we are going to worry about is the people," said an Air Force spokesman.

"We pray for no more snow," said the tribal police superintendent, V. Allen Adams. "The one thing we don't need is more snow. The old-timers say they have never seen anything like it."

At least one person is dead from the storm, a 60-year-old crippled sheep herder who lived in the sprawling reservation's northeast area. There were unconfirmed reports of five other deaths.

At Rough Rock a family of five, including three children, were extremely ill from exposure, Navajo police said.

Adams estimated 16,000 to 18,000 square miles of the 25,000-square mile reservation, largest in the United States, was affected by the storm.

In many areas, deep snow immobilized tracked snow vehicles and other heavy equipment.

Tornado Kills 2, Injures 20 as Violent Weather Rakes Alabama

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A tornado killed two persons and injured at least 20 others as violent weather struck a large area of north Alabama today.

The tornado hopscotched around Madison and Morgan counties, touching down in at least five communities, but it missed the Redstone Arsenal missile complex at Huntsville.

Killed south of Huntsville was 60-year-old Clarence Ellison.

Another death was reported at Valhermoso Springs in Morgan County, but it was not determined immediately whether the person died in the tornado or drowned in heavy flooding that followed torrential rains. The victim was not identified immediately.

Lt. Richard Anderson of the Huntsville Police Department said 20 persons were admitted to hospitals.

He said the tornado "was traveling from southwest to northeast and cut a digonal swath across Monte Santo Mountain."

The twister touched down at Valhermoso Springs and at Summerville in Morgan County before moving into Madison County southeast of Huntsville, several miles from the Redstone complex.

The heavy rains were complicating the task of reaching and helping the tornado victims. A number of the injured was believed in critical condition.

The weather bureau had estimated 30 to 40 persons were hurt.

Many parts of north Alabama were under water. with almost five inches of rain drenching Huntsville during the night.

Some low-lying areas were flooded but none of the principal roads were closed.

The high wind and rains hit DeKalb, Marshall, Jackson, Limestone, Morgan and Madison counties.

Another twister hit three communities in Sumter County in West central Alabama.

There were no immediate reports of injuries from that one, which struck at Bellamy, Coatopa and Twin Oaks. Extensive property damage was reported and a gas main ruptured on Alabama 28 in Twin Oaks Community.

At Bellamy, a home reportedly was destroyed and utility poles were blown down.

Jackson Woman Dies In 3-Vehicle Crash

A Jackson woman died as a result of a three-vehicle collisior Sunday at 8:45 p.m. during heavy fog on Interstate 55, five miles south of Scott City.

She was Mrs. Joseph Harvey, 39, Jackson, passenger in a 1968 Cadillac, driven by her husbnad, 39.

The couple was returning from a visit with relatives and friends in Sikeston. Harvey received fractured ribs and an arm and head injury. Five others were injured in the crash.

The vehicles were traveling north on Interstate 55. Involved were the Cadillac, a 1962 Chevrolet, driven by Estel Walls, 23, Chicago, and a 1963 Chevrolet truck - trailer, driven by Lonnie Millner, 27, Charleston.

According to the highway patrol, the speeding Harvey car ran in the left rear of the Millner trailer-truck, causing the Harvey car to spin around where it was struck headon by the Chevrolet driven by Walls.

Others injured were Walls, and three passengers, Odie Keith, 24, Portageville, fractured ankle and hand bruises, Ronnie Forrester, 18, and Lois Forrster, 18, both of St. Louis, each receiving a back injury. Millner, driver of the truck-trailer, received a chest injury.

The injured were taken to the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Harvey, the former Helen M. McCombs, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McCombs, president of the Cape County Milling Company in Jackson.

Her body was removed to the McCombs Funeral Home in Jackson.

Saturday two miles west of Wyatt on route JJ, the patrol reported that Frank Ware, Charleston, left his 1961 Ford, after he ran off the highway and struck a utility pole.

A passenger, James Greer, 19, Wyatt, received cuts on his face.

Saturday at 3:30 p.m. on highway 160, five were injured when a 1967 Chevrolet, driven by Frank Seeburger, 60, Dexter, made a left turn into the side of a 1962 Oldsmobile, driven by Russell Richmond, 43, Dyersburg, Tenn.

Injured were, Seeburger, with cuts on his chin. In the Richmond car the injured were the driver, cuts on face, and three passengers. Gary Richmond, 12, eye injury; Randy Richmond, 9, cuts on face and possible skull fracture and chest injury; and Marthy Richmond, 35, a bruised arm. They were taken to the Doctors hospital in Poplar Bluff. Seeburger was arrested on a charge of careless and imprudent driving.

The bodies of two adults and a child pried out of the car's twisted metal remains were taken to a temporary morgue in a state armory.

They were not immediately identified.

Sitting on a barge in the river, the crane also pulled up one huge chunk of the bridge superstructure this morning. It was placed on the barge. It was believed that superstructure pieces were being hauled up in an effort to reach vehicles trapped under the debris.

The 1,500-foot-wide section of the river between Ohio and West Virginia yielded eight bodies from four cars and a truck when the derricks pulled them out Sunday. The other five bodies were recovered Friday, a few hours after the suspension bridge collapsed under the weight of rush hour and Christmas shoppers' traffic.

Forecast of more than one inch of rain for the Point Pleasant area brought with it the fear that the river's level would rise and increase its current. This would seriously hamper divers in their efforts to reach cars crushed under the bridge's superstructure.

Of the 13 dead, only one remained unidentified. That was the body of a man taken from the cab of a trailer-truck yanked from the river Sunday afternoon.

The big 40-year-old bridge, a major link between the two states, crumpled into the Ohio River 80 feet below just after 5 p.m. Friday. The center span of the bridge disappeared, leaving only the approach ramps on both sides and concrete piers jutting above the river's surface.

Max Ray, a commercial deep sea diver from New Orleans, said that "you've got to worry about metal falling on you."

Ray spent several hours in the river's murky depths Sunday and said "it's real hairy and dangerous down there. You can't see your hand on the face plate of your mask. It's so dark, pitch black."

The tangled mass of the bridge's superstructure, lying atop the cars and trucks in 40 feet of water "is so shaky I could move the beams by hand. I dropped through the mess of steel and it started to slide," Ray said.

Another problem stemming from the disaster was that river traffic along the Ohio was choked and backed up for miles. Col. William D. Falck of the Army engineers estimated that 60,000 tons of cargo was stalled because the river was closed above and below Point Pleasant.

The cars pulled from the water Sunday reflected the tremendous impact which existed when the span collapsed. All were torn and smashed. The engine dropped from one as it was lifted. The top of another, which held two bodies, was peeled off.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said traffic on Route 7, which parallels the river for miles, was backed up for 4½ miles Sunday afternoon. Troopers estimated the crowds of the curious at between 10,000 and 15,000. But all were kept away from the river's edge so as not to hamper the search.

U.S. Rep. Ken Hechler, D. W.Va., who represents the area, toured the site for a second time late Sunday and said the reason for the bridge's collapse "may never be known."

The congressman is making frequent trips here to speed up the federal aid process and act as a semi-official liaison with the White House.

"The immediate need is to establish a traffic link between Point Pleasant and Gallipolis," he said. "The economic implications of this disaster are staggering.

"We're trying to get the New York Central Railroad to establish a shuttle service on the railroad bridge (about one-quarter mile north of the disaster site) and we're also trying to arrange for a ferry."

The question of indemnity also arose. West Virginia owns the Ohio River to the Ohio shoreline and probes were being made to determine responsibility.

Soviets Boast U.S. Fooled by Falsified Data

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet secret police boasted today they had outwitted the United States with false information about military strength. The U.S. Embassy said the Russians were indulging in "fabrications."

The KGB— the Committee for State Security— said it captured a spy named Afonov who was working for U.S. intelligence. It asserted it used his radio apparatus and secret dispatches to transmit misleading data about the location of troops, defense bases and the submarine fleet.

"Apart from attempting to glorify the Chekists— from the old KGB name of Chek— on their anniversary, the article seems to be part of a series of Soviet fabrications regarding alleged Western and particularly U.S. espionage," the embassy said in a statement.

KGB also said in an interview in Pravda on the 50th anniversary of the organization that two U.S. military attaches had been caught snooping at a military installation.

It charged that Lt. Cmdr. Robert B. Bathurst, U.S. assistant naval attache, and Lt. Col. Robert E. Liichow, assistant Army attache, "went up directly to a military object and imprudently peered through the fence." It said they were apprehended on the spot and taken away.

The embassy reported that the incident occurred in June of last year at Orsha, a town about 300 miles west of Moscow. It said "they were briefly detained, but the accusations against them were without foundation.

Both attaches left the Soviet Union last spring at the end of normal tours of duty.

In another development, the government newspaper Izvestia presented Harold A. K. Philby, British master spy, as a hero in the cause of communism.

Philby fled to the Soviet Union in 1963 after holding high positions in the British Intelligence Service and gaining access in Washington to many of the secrets of the Central Intelligence Agency.

In the Pravda article, the KGB claimed it was more than a match for Western intelligence.

Service Station Robbed Twice

MINER --- A cash register valued at $350 and about $250 in cash and checks were taken between 4 a.m. and 5 a.m. Sunday from Hart's Standard Service Station, Ray Hart, manager, said.

Robert Simmons, station attendant who was working a double shift, slept through the theft.

Two motorists had filled their own gas tanks and left without paying between 2 a.m. and 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

An attendant at a Saveway Station across Highway 62 East, from Hart's wakened Simmons at 2:30 a.m. Sunday and told him he saw two motorists help themselves to gasoline and leave. He had the license number of one of the cars.

Simmons fell asleep again and was awakened by a man who delivers the morning paper at 4:30 a.m. Sunday.

When Simmons went to get a quarter to pay for the paper he discovered the cash register was gone. Scott County authorities are investigating.

Arrest Seven in Weekend; 4 Thefts, 2 Accidents

Leo Comstock, 2110 Indiana, was charged at 11 p.m. Saturday with driving while intoxicated on Ables Road.

George A. Parr, Bertrand, was charged at 2:02 a.m. Sunday with exceeding the speed limit on East Malone.

Leeton J. Potts, Malden, was charged with careless and imprudent driving at 6:45 p.m. Saturday. The car he was driving collided with a vehicle driven by Mrs. Letha S. Harris, 101 East Center, near the A & B Oil Co. 1631 East Malone, police said. Potts was westbound on Malone, made a left turn and struck the eastbound Harris car, police reported.

J. E. Woods, Benton, was charged by police Friday with driving while intoxicated on Young Street.

Jimmy W. Powers, 415 Illinois, was charged with assault and battery Friday.

Leonard R. Lett, 916 Lynn, and Hueits S. Copeland, 144 Cardinal, were each charged Friday with careless and imprudent driving.

Wayne Wright, route two, Sikeston, reported to police at 4:10 p.m. Sunday that a 12 gauge shotgun was taken from his residence.

Roland Sparks, an employe of Otasco, reported to police at 6:39 p.m. Saturday that a radio - tape recorder valued at $80 was taken from the store Saturday evening.

Franklin Struwe, 120 Maplewood Dr., reported to police at 8:30 a.m. today that his son's glasses were taken last Monday from the high school shower room.

Charles White, 411 Missouri, reported to police at 9:16 a.m. today that a dark brown transistor radio was taken from a Lewis Sales Co. truck Saturday afternoon while it was parked on West Malone.

All the dogs at the city pound had been turned loose when the humane officer checked the pen at 9:42 a.m. today. All pens had been broken open. The pound is at the city dump.

Nackie A. Taylor, East Prairie, reported to police at 3:55 p.m. Saturday that a car struck the rear of her vehicle at Malone and Main. The other car backed up and left the scene, police reported.

Man Accused of Two Robberies Escapes

CHARLESTON -- A Hickman, Ky., man who escaped from federal court at St. Louis Friday morning is still at large, Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons said today.

William Howard Dunn, 46, charged with armed robbery of the Dorena post office and Citizens Bank of Gerald in September, walked out of court and was last seen Friday morning walking in downtown St. Louis.

About $1,000 in cash and stamps was taken in the Dorena robbery and $99,000 in the bank robbery.

Two Thefts In Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF -- An undetermined amount of cigarettes were stolen from the William Evans home in Poplar Bluff Saturday night, the highway patrol reported.

Evans is an agent with the Anderson-Clark Distributing Co.

Two pistols, a Polaroid camera, eight wrist and pocket watches and $3 in cash were reported stolen from the Budweiser Tavern Saturday in Poplar Bluff.

Man Posing As FBI Agent Takes Billfold

EAST PRAIRIE -- A 21-year-old East Prairie man is in county jail at Charleston, charged with stealing a billfold Friday night.

Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons charged that Jerry Wayne Adams walked up to a car occupied by Jim Henry of East Prairie and said:

"I am an FBI agent and I want to see your billfold and driver's license."

Henry told authorities that Adams took the billfold, pushed him out of the car and left. The billfold contained $65.

Adams was picked up Saturday night at East Prairie.

Mental Health Plea Presented

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri is moving ahead in the field of mental health, the House Appropriations Committee learned today, but not as fast as it could if more money were available.

The Division of Mental Diseases asked for a total allotment of $106,634,000. Gov. Warren E. Hearnes cut that to $71,965,000— almost $7 million more than the agency got this year.

Included in the total budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 is $65,231,000 for operations, compared with a request of $70,473,000.

But the big cut came in capital improvements. The division asked $36,161,000 but the governor trimmed that to $6,734,000— including a new juvenile treatment center at Fulton State Hospital.

Included in the request was $1,083,000 to expand the treatment of the estimated 160,000 Missouri alcoholics who need help. Eight alcoholism centers are operating now— one at each of the five state hospitals and the three intensive care centers.

The governor recommended $678,000 for this program.

About $150,000 of the money would be used to set up detoxification centers in urban areas such as the one now operating in St. Louis and establish rural referral and followup centers elsewhere to take care of the "town drunks" who are known as occupants of "skid row" in the cities.

The new alcoholism program has made "substantial gains" in its first year, the committee was told.

Another $2 million was requested for community mental health centers, to be matched by an equal amount of federal funds.

Dr. George A. Ulett, mental health director, reported such centers are "ready to go" at Joplin and Mexico as soon as federal money becomes available. He said several other cities have started preliminary work on such programs.

The division also sought $3.5 million to place hospital patients in nursing, foster care and their own family homes when they are ready for community life. The governor allowed $3.1 million for this program.

Ulett said patients can be cared for at about one-third the cost outside the state hospitals. He estimated the money recommended would enable about 4,000 to be placed in such outside environments and an estimated 2,000 more could be placed outside eventually.

Later today the committee planned to hear requests of individual institutions.

Two Small Boys Killed by Dogs

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) -- A pack of German shepherd dogs attacked and killed two small boys Sunday while their father fought futilely to save them by clubbing the animals with a rake.

The attack, near a creek behind the victims' home in nearby Madison Heights, included two neighborhood dogs the boys apparently had played with before.

The victims were Gene Anthony Goodman, 4, and Kenneth Goodman, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Goodman of Madison Heights.

Family Loses Belongings In Fire

A fire believed to have started from a stove gutted a two apartment small wood house early Sunday at 332 Petty Street. No one was injured.

Firemen fought the fire and cleaned up till 10:45 p.m. The house, now unfit for occupancy, is owned by the Sikeston Compress.

It was occupied by Horace House and the Eugene Neal family.

The Neal family moved in temporarily with Mrs. Neal's mother, Mary Townsend, 359 Magnolia. They have three children ages 2, 1, six months old. All the family belongings were lost in the fire.

Horace House is a widower who occupied the other side of the apartment.

Helicopters Search for Indians Isolated by Snow

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP) -- Air Force helicopters were out over the Navajo Reservation today searching for Indians marooned by snow up to four feet deep.

One helicopter flew an aerial weather survey from this fribal headquarters village near the New Mexico border to Chinle, about 60 miles northwest.

The helicopter, with a medical corpsman aboard, then was sent to Pine Springs southwest of Window Rock where 6-8 Navajos were reported suffering from frost bite. A helicopter from Chinle was sent to Rough Rock where another 5-6 Navajos were reported in need of medical care.

Skies over the reservation appeared to be clearing, at least temporarily, raising hopes other helicopters could get into the air to survey other areas.

Another exposure death, a 2-year-old Indian boy, was reported at an isolated hogan seven miles north of U.S. 66 and about 15 miles west of the New Mexico border.

Bureau of Indian Affairs officials estimated 60,000 Navajos are in varying degrees of distress from the storm that struck the reservation last Tuesday night.

Air Force cargo planes and helicopters were prepared to drop food, shelter, clothes and medical supplies for the Indians. Doctors were to accompany the helicopters.

"The first thing we are going to worry about is the people," said an Air Force spokesman.

"We pray for no more snow," said the tribal police superintendent, V. Allen Adams. "The one thing we don't need is more snow. The old-timers say they have never seen anything like it."

At least one person is dead from the storm, a 60-year-old crippled sheep herder who lived in the sprawling reservation's northeast area. There were unconfirmed reports of five other deaths.

At Rough Rock a family of five, including three children, were extremely ill from exposure, Navajo police said.

Adams estimated 16,000 to 18,000 square miles of the 25,000-square mile reservation, largest in the United States, was affected by the storm.

In many areas, deep snow immobilized tracked snow vehicles and other heavy equipment.

Armed Robbery Nets $167

An armed robbery Sunday afternoon of The Quick Shop on South Main netted $167 for a lone gunman.

Mrs. Donna Standridge, manager, reported the incident to police at 2:20 p.m. Sunday.

A man described as between 18 and 20 years old with long blond hair held a gun on Mrs. Standridge and demanded all the paper money and money orders, she told police.

The man left on foot walking around the north side of the building. Mrs. Standridge said she did not see nor hear an automobile.

The same man had been in the store at about 11 a.m. Sunday and had purchased a pack of cigarettes, Mrs. Standridge said.

A man working in his garage near the store told police he saw a man with long bond hair drive out of his driveway in a hurry at about the time of the holdup. He was driving a 1967 or 68 Thunderbird. Police are investigating.

Tornado Kills 2, Injures 20 as Violent Weather Rakes Alabama

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A tornado killed two persons and injured at least 20 others as violent weather struck a large area of north Alabama today.

The tornado hopscotched around Madison and Morgan counties, touching down in at least five communities, but it missed the Redstone Arsenal missile complex at Huntsville.

Killed south of Huntsville was 60-year-old Clarence Ellison.

Another death was reported at Valhermoso Springs in Morgan County, but it was not determined immediately whether the person died in the tornado or drowned in heavy flooding that followed torrential rains. The victim was not identified immediately.

Lt. Richard Anderson of the Huntsville Police Department said 20 persons were admitted to hospitals.

He said the tornado "was traveling from southwest to northeast and cut a digonal swath across Monte Santo Mountain."

The twister touched down at Valhermoso Springs and at Summerville in Morgan County before moving into Madison County southeast of Huntsville, several miles from the Redstone complex.

The heavy rains were complicating the task of reaching and helping the tornado victims. A number of the injured was believed in critical condition.

The weather bureau had estimated 30 to 40 persons were hurt.

Many parts of north Alabama were under water. with almost five inches of rain drenching Huntsville during the night.

Some low-lying areas were flooded but none of the principal roads were closed.

The high wind and rains hit DeKalb, Marshall, Jackson, Limestone, Morgan and Madison counties.

Another twister hit three communities in Sumter County in West central Alabama.

There were no immediate reports of injuries from that one, which struck at Bellamy, Coatopa and Twin Oaks. Extensive property damage was reported and a gas main ruptured on Alabama 28 in Twin Oaks Community.

At Bellamy, a home reportedly was destroyed and utility poles were blown down.

Congressman Jones Will Interview 12 for Academies

WASHINGTON - Of 25 young men in Southeast Missouri who took the qualifying civil service commission examination given at the request of Rep. Payl C. Jones Kennett, Mo. Democrat only 12 made grades above 50.

Congressman Jones stated that these were the lowest grades made by young men in the district by applicants for nomination for appointments to the three service academies during the past 19 years.

The 12 have been invited by Congressman Jones to attend a luncheon Dec. 26 at the Hickory House motel restaurant at Dexter, Mo., when each of the 12 will be interviewed.

Only the seven who made grades of 60 or above will be considered for four principal appointments. The others will be considered for alternate appointments.

Young men invited to the luncheon, Michael Baker, route one, East Prairie; Michael Barker, Route three, Dexter; James M. Clippard, Newport, R. I., son of retired serviceman whose legal voting address in Bollinger county; Thomas Gee, route one, Lilbourn;

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A THOUGHT AT CHRISTMAS TIME

"This year, during Yuletide, phone or call on some sick or lonely person and wish him Happy Holidays. You could be his only caller the entire season of well wishing, joy sharing and renewing old acquaintanceships. A tangible gift isn't necessary. The gift of friendship is the greatest gift within man's means. (Our emphasis).

"If more people tried this giving of themselves at Christmas, there might well be less time to dwell on one's own worries, real or imaginary, less excuse for finding synthetic happiness in a bottle, fewer homes facing a holiday season with some loved one absent -- forever -- a victim of the awful and growing toll exacted during the holiday season by drivers with .15% blood alcohol.

"We'll not wish you a merry Christmas nor a Gladstone New Year. Whatever your fortune or misfortunes this past year, they are so much better than the rest of the world that this should be a season of thanksgiving for the gifts of freedom and democracy and friendship and the right to vote and to elect a President of a Faith they said could never be elected -- all these are rays of new hope in any country and more especially in our own. In time, intolerance and bigotry may be as absent from the hearts of men as we like to think they are absent at Christmas. (Our emphasis). Peace on Earth, Good will toward All Men!

AN ALPHABET OF CHRISTMAS WORDS

Unicorn comes from two Latin words meaning "one horn." Its place in ecclesiastical lore results from the myth that no hunter could capture it by force, but must be taken by trick.

The hunter was required to lead a virgin to the unicorn's place, and in her presence the animal would go to sleep. This has been interpreted as an allegory of the Annunciation and Incarnation.

Vigil comes from the Latin "vigilia," meaning watchfulness. In English its meaning is ecclesiastical; the eve of a festival or holy day becomes a vigil, or time of watching.

Wassail originally was a simple saluation, probably from Old Norse "Ves" and "heill." It meant "be in good health," or "be fortunate." Its use as a drinking formula arose among Danish - speaking inhabitants of England before the 12th Century.

* * *

While the majority of Christmas cards this year still picture the well-loved symbols of bells, candles, holly, poinsettia, and so on, it is interesting that modern American scenes are becoming popular, as are birds and animals not traditionally connected with Christmas. However, "Merry Christmas" is still the most popular greeting.

Chance of a Lifetime. In Detroit, Edward Jefferson was acquitted after he told the judge how he happened to knock a policeman to the sidewalk: "I saw a big bee land just above the officer's collar on the back of his neck and I didn't want him to get stung, so I hit the bee as hard as I could."

One of the top items on our own Christmas list is the wish for a lack of laryngitis in Sikeston during the holidays.

This city is blessed with some of the most beautiful songsters -- a remark that applies both to the singers and the quality of their voices and their song.

They sing in the Community Choir, in the church choirs and in other vocal groups.

What a drab community this would be without them.

They toil throughout all the weeks of the year, improving their singing, serving without pay.

The Christmas music is among the prettiest there is until its repetition begins to cause the ear to rebel.

The remedy for this is to tune out the Christmas music programs on radio and television.

A person needs to pace himself in this as it all other things. Tolerance is a virtue.

This is a happier season because of Sikeston's numerous and talented singing groups.

It is selfish of us but we wish for them all good voices unhampered by either silencing or distorting germs of any description.

Deck the halls with holly and let the voices be lifted in melodic Christmas music.

May the talented and public spirited singers all have a particularly harmonious Christmas and a melodic New Year.

This could be the year when Christmas door decoration may really come into its own. For years we have been wrapping our doors to look like enticing Christmas packages, or decorating them to express a greeting to guests even before we welcome them personally. A brand-new book on Christmas decoration pictures a pine-cone-and-nut frame for a card that can so easily be mistaken for a sumptuous door "painting" that the idea is almost certain to be picked up by those with time and imagination who would like something personal and utterly beautiful for their doors this year. With a dramatic card supplying the motif, and a good supply of nuts, cones, dried fruit and other dried material to surround it, no two doors could ever look alike. And what an exciting addition to American "Christmas Art!"

SHEPHERDS IN OLD AGE

Tonight we talked about it all again,
We who alone are left -- Judah and I --
Of those who heard the angel song and then Went hurrying off beneath a soundless sky.
"Remember?" Judah said. "We felt a burning
Within our hearts, a wonder wide and deep.
Then afterward there was the slow returning
To stony hills and vigils with the sheep."
Old Judah smiled a little wistfully.
"Ours have been quiet years. The commonplace
Has been our portion, yet eternity
Has been around us with encircling grace
Because once, kneeling on the manger sod,
We raised our eyes and saw the Son of God."

PROMOTION FOR CARNEY

Southeast Missouri is losing its district highway engineer, W. D. (Dale) Carney. Head of District 10's highway-building unit since 1963, Carney is being promoted to chief engineer of the Missouri State Highway Department's Bridge Division at Jefferson City. The promotion takes effect February 1.

It is interesting to note that Carney, who was quite happy in his post as district engineer, is being moved to Jefferson City to head a division that will have for its principal project the Mississippi River bridge connecting the Bootheel with western Tennessee. Under Carney's direction, this work is assured of competent supervision and direction.

We congratulate Carney on his new appointment, and welcome his successor, William H. Shaw, a native of Illmo who is now a field liaison engineer in the maintenance and traffic division in Jefferson City.

The Bootheel will miss Carney's effective, competent leadership; we are hopeful the same qualities will be present in his successor.

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The inevitable question asked Gerald Green is, how do you combine the careers of television producer and novelist?

Green's sad face draws into a slight smile as he says, "It isn't as dramatic as people think. The two careers don't overlap. I take time off to write.

"When I was younger I used to work weekends intensely and one night a week," he said. "I wrote 'The Last Angry Man' while working on the 'Today' show. I couldn't do that again."

Nevertheless, the latest efforts from both careers are about to make their bows just weeks apart.

His newest book, his eighth, is "To Brooklyn With Love," the January Book-of-the-Month Club selection, and "American Profile: The Forgotten Peninsula," a documentary on Baja California with Joseph Wood Krutch, was shown on the NBC television network Friday, Dec. 8.

The book tells the story of 12-year-old Albert Abrams, the son of a neighborhood doctor, as he grows up in the Brownsville slums of Brooklyn. Like several of Green's other books, it is partly autobiographical.

Green, a balding, husky six-footer wearing black suspenders decorated with fishing flies, said he now limits himself to two television documentaries a year and devotes the rest of his time to writing.

Comparing the two fields, he said, "I suppose a book is completely your own. Compared to any artistic expression it's the most satisfying. But writing is nerve-wracking and lonely. I bleed a lot. Television is more fun and I find it relaxing."

His first book was "His Majesty O'Keefe," a biography of a self-proclaimed king of a South Sea island. "I wrote that with Larry Klingman when we both worked the overnight shift at the International News Service," he said.

"We'd come in a few hours early and write until it was time to start work. It was made into a movie with Burt Lancaster and it's still around on the late, late show."

A movie also was made of "The Last Angry Man," a fictionalized story about his father — a Brooklyn neighborhood doctor.

Newly weds, the groom aged 75 and his bride of 22, just arrived at a resort hotel. The next morning all the hipped guests were curious and they all managed to make breakfast.

Presently the 75 year old groom came romping down the stairs like a playful child. Very cheerfuly speaking and nodding to everyone in sight, he called the waitress and ordered six scrambled eggs, eight slices of toast, juice, etc., which after being served was attacked with gusto.

A half an hour later, the 22 year old bride shuffled slowly down into the dining room amid curious stares and seated herself at the table. The bride's eyes were sunken into her head and encircled with large dark rings; her cheeks were haggard and she wore a strange, vacant look on her face.

The new husband brushed her lips with barely a kiss and excused himself to use the telephone for a business call.

The waitress who could contain her womanly curiosity no longer went over to the new bride at the table and asked:

"Look, honey, I know it's none of my business, but you look something terrible, all worn out. . .what on earth happened?"

The 22 year old answered wearily: "I went with him for five years and he always was the perfect genetleman, only he kept telling me that he'd been saving up for forty years and I thought he meant money!"

The elderly woman walked into the liquor store with two guns, pointed them at the owner and said, "Give me six bottles of scotch, all the money, and I want you to take me into the back room and make love to me."

He got the money and he got the scotch; then took her into the back room where he proceeded to make love to her, her guns still pointed at his temple. In the excitement of the lovemaking, the woman dropped her guns. He paused momentarily and said, "Lady, would you mind picking up your guns again; I'm expecting my wife any minute.

NEW SYSTEM FOR RAILROAD FREIGHT CONTROL

A new system of railroad freight car load control which could help reduce substantially the nation's $150 million damaged - freight losses, has been developed by the Corporate Traffic department of the General Foods Corporation.

The new system - called air load control - replaces the mechanical restraining devices commonly used for freight control with an expandable pneumatic bulkhead.

This pneumatic bulkhead - four, fabric - reinforced, inflatable rubber bladders suspended between outer steel panels that span the width of a loaded rail car - expands under air pressure to secure the freight with a moderate force that controls and cushions the in-transit shifting responsible for most freight damage.

The General Foods air load control system, which took more than a year - and a - half to develop, is one of the several innovations from the company in recent years. A long-time pioneer in transportation and distribution methods, General Foods introduced palletized shipping and the now standard 48 by 40 inch wood pallet to the food industry in the early 1960's, and worked closely on the design of the first palletized rail car.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY:

News coverage charged with impeding U.S. Vietnam diplomacy; our press freedom confuses Asians; South African singer is ungrateful guest.

OAS OFFICIAL FIRED

On Nov. 26 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that one of the top OAS lobbyists for a new secretary general was Luis Raul Betances, OAS administrative director, despite the fact that OAS officials were forbidden to try to influence the election. Betances, it was reported, had been decorated by Panama and was lobbying for the Panamanian Ambassador.

WASHINGTON -- Freedom of the press and the efficiency of diplomacy are clashing in Vietnam. American diplomats appear frustrated and furious over American newspaper stories, and have complained in dispatches to Washington that the U.S. press seems to be working against them. The press alienates sensitive Asian leaders faster than the diplomats can placate them, it is alleged.

What happens is that Asian leaders read the American newspapers and news magazines avidly and seize upon the slightest insult, real or fancied, to blow up a storm. Diplomats are convinced that it was the American Press which turned both Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia and Newin of Burma against the United States.

Prince Sihanouk has bitterly resented Glib Press descriptions of him as "mercurial" and "volatile." References to his saxophone - tootling, playboy past have turned him purple with rage.

One reason why the state department encouraged Jacqueline Kennedy to visit Cambodia was to mellow Sihanouk toward the United States. But state department diplomats claim that American newsmen took advantage of Sihanouk's new leniency to do some snooping. They discovered what they claimed was a vacated Viet Cong camp inside Cambodia. Angrily, Sihanouk returned to his rigid, anti-American stance and thereafter barred all U.S. newsmen from his country.

General Ne Win of Burma was also softening toward America when he read a recent issue of Time magazine which incorrectly reported that he was isolating himself from the public and that the U.S. was supplying him with counter - insurgency weapons in violation of his netrality policy. Like Sihanouk, the General immediately hardened again toward Washington.

IRKED KING OF THAILAND

Even Thailand's King Bhumibol, strongly pro-American, has got his back up at times over U.S. Press reports. He was incensed, for example, over stories that he had been afraid to step out of his helicopter during a set-down in the troubled northeast region of his country. Actually, he had started out boldly from the helicopter, but his security guards pleaded with him to come back.

He was furious, too, over press descriptions of his troops in Vietnam as "mercenaries." Actually they are poorly - paid soldiers, many of them draftees, from the regular Thai army. The king was also upset over embarrassing -- and inaccurate -- news reports that U.S. planes were bombing communist positions inside Thailand.

Asian leaders, who largely control their own press, have difficulty separating U.S. news accounts from official pronouncements. They also haven't developed the American politicians' tough skin regarding press criticism. Result: A news story such as Time's recent report on Burma can actually cause a setback in diplomatic relations.

In this case, time told of the reported shipments of U.S. counter - insurgency weapons to Burma and the presence of a mission to train Burmese pilots. Time added that the United States was not anxious to get bogged down in Burma, declaring: "The country's rapid rate of deterioration makes South Vietnam seem almost a model of stability."

The story was lifted straight out of the far eastern economic review, which published it under the byline of Peter Boog. He is described in diplomatic dispatches as an "unreliable" news stringer who worked for several years in Burma and moved recently to Hong Kong.

The truth is that no U.S. shipments of counter-insurgency weapons have been requested by Burma nor are any anticipated. Furthermore, General Ne Win was touring Burma, mingling with his people first in northern Burma then in southern Burma, during the period Time Magazine reported he "had not been seen in public."

While such inaccuracies would hardly disturb a U.S. politican, the article outraged Ne Win and seriously damaged American-Burmese relations.

CAPITOL NEWS CAPSULES

Ungrateful guest -- the American Embassy in Zambia gave a party honoring south African folk singer Mirian Makeba, who has appeared on the Ed Sullivan show and other TV broadcasts in this country. Immediately after the party in her honor, Miss Makeba headed straight for Tanzania to appear on the same platform with the black power rabble - rouser, Stokely Carmichael, where she sang anti-American, pro - communist songs. The rally was so viciously anti - American and stirred up such anti-American sentiment that 12 American passengers aboard a ship in port were warned it would be dangerous for them to go ashore.

Greek troublemaker -- Gen. George Grivas, ordered home from Cyprus to avert war between Greece and Turkey, has been precipitating the Cyprus crisis by killing Turkish Cypriots. The incident nearly provoked war with Turkey and forced the Greek military Junta to make humiliating concessions, including the withdrawal of 18,000 Greek troops from Cyprus. This was what touched King Constantine's revolt.

GOP Dust Twins, Albert Quie, Minn., and Charles Goodell, N.Y., finally came to a parting of the ways over the OEO antipoverty bill. Quie voted for the bill, Goodell voted no. Quie explained on the floor that he had done a lot of soul-searching, but did not reveal that he was under heavy pressure from civil and church groups in Minnesota who want to provide jobs for the poor.

Robert A. Stringer, genera' manager of the company's Corporate Traffic department and Distribution - Sales Services division, said the air load control system was a major step to improve rail freight transport, reduce its costs, and facilitate food product handling.

TRENDS: While knits and sports-like dress shirts have been so very big, the regular cut-and-sewn shirts have been kept in the background. But they're starting a strong comeback -- in neat, small plaids; in shirt models to be worn outside; longer and side-vented in silky, lustrous fabrics to appeal to the man desiring greater elegance... Boots are still in high demand -- in jodphur-types, low cuts, Wellingtons, etc. . . Many travelers have come back from Europe highly enthused about the collars on Italian shirts -- with a double-lining that makes wrinkling almost impossible. This idea has now been emulated by some U.S. shirt makers, and the shirts are available in certain stores.

WORTH DYING FOR

Many events in recent years have shown that life under communism is very nearly intolerable and that people who are forced to live under this tyrannical system seek to escape it whenever possible.

Americans have come almost to take the Berlin Wall for granted, but they should not forget that it was originally erected because countless members of Germans were leaving East Germany for the freedom of the West. Since the wall was built, many courageous East Germans have risked everything they had, including their lives to escape to West Germany.

In 1954, over one million Vietnamese rejected communism for freedom. That was the number of people from North Vietnam who chose to come to South Vietnam, although it meant that they had to leave behind everything they owned and came only with what they could carry. Almost no one chose to leave the South for the North, to leave freedom for communism.

Every day Cubans are leaving Castro's communist - controlled land to come to the United States. United States "freedom flights" bring about 3,800 Cubans to the U.S. every month. More than 75,000 Cuban refugees have been flown into Miami in the past twenty - one months, and the Cuban Refugee Center in Miami estimates that about 1.3 million more Cubans want to leave.

Members of farleft groups in this country praise life under communism and attack life in the United States and other nations of the West. But those who have actually lived under communism know the truth. Their actions show that freedom is well worth dying for.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Teamsters Launching New Labor Federation by 'Raiding' Fields Ranging From Radio and TV to Toys and Airports

Washington, D. C.: -- Suddenly it is coming through clear and loud that the Teamsters brotherhood is being a lot less fraternal toward other union chiefs than it was even under the ailing and imprisoned Jimmy Hoffa.

"The Teamsters are raiding the hell out of all of us," a union leader observed the other day pointing to a confidential survey of the brotherhood's recent activities all the way from New York to Los Angeles and Portland, Ore.

An examination of the data on the brotherhood's raids of other union jurisdictions now appears to prove on startling conclusion:

The Teamsters are organizing a sprawling labor federation of their own reaching into fields far from the nation's highways -- a federation stretching from movie studios to radio stations to newspapers to missile and space bases, football fields, communication corporations, airports and even toy shops.

The Teamsters objective is a minimum membership of 2 million in the very nerve centers of the U.S.

They're reaching into white areas everywhere. Recently they invaded the jurisdiction of the National Assn. of Broadcast Employes and Technicians (NABET) in the movie production studios of a national telebision network. Any office staff in the regions near a strong Teamsters' local is fair game.

"They're raiding us everywhere," this correspondent was told by Howard Coughlin, "new young breed" type president of the Office and Professional Employes which has contracts with the big stock exchanges as well as in highly classified executive suites at nuclear installations and advanced weaponry plants.

"We beat them recently when they attempted to take 1,600 employes from our union in just one company. But they're at us all the time."

Apparently no union is too big for the Teamsters to take on in frontal attacks. Recently, the survey reveals, the brotherhood, now actively directed by Frank Fitzsimmons who may or may not have control over the swashbuckling locals, moved in on the United Auto Workers, the United Steelworkers, the Building Service Employes, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the International Union of Electrical Workers, the Sheet Metal Workers, the Seafarers, the Chemical Workers and some construction unions.

These organizations make up the infrastructure, the inner establishment of the AFL-CIO. So the challenge is there though unnoticed by the public because of raids on established unions are spread across the entire country.

What now concerns both labor and federal observers is the expansion of the Teamsters into areas new to them.

Not too long ago the unsavory Teamsters Local 295 drove the powerful transportation workers union from the strategic air freight sections of New York's Kennedy Airport. Local 295 then was run by John McNamara, a friend of both Jimmy Hoffa's and the Johnny Dio bloc of East Coast operatives now being investigated.

The Teamsters, also not too long ago, began whipping its communications division into shape. It absorbed the old American Communications Assn. (ACA) which has been unaffiliated since it was ousted from the former CIO. That section now is headed by Joe Selly, long considered a militant left winger.

It has its ambitions set on the radio and television fields as well as expanding its power into the RAC type of international cable communications. Not the least of its objectives is to take the tens of thousands of American Tel. and Tel. employes from Joe Beirne's Communications Workers of America.

Add to this the fact that the Teamsters also have been raiding the American Newspaper Guild and the Bookbinders at some newspaper and printing plants and the image grows stranger.

The raids and the fact that the Teamsters have not applied to the AFL-CIO for readmission despite Hoffa's inevitable long imprisionment, conviences national labor leaders that the brotherhood first wants to launch its own union federation. This can be done without any change in title, or merely by replacing words in the full name (Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Helpers, etc.) with such words as "Communication, Production, Transport."

So the labor leaders are doing what comes naturally. They are developing flying squads of their own, a technique now being used in Los Angeles. When the Teamsters raid one union, the others send in their crack business agents to defend a local which might crack under the brotherhood's assault.

Furthermore, the Teamsters sound more awesome than they are in some areas. Not only has Coughlin's Office and Professional Employees beat them back, but so have the Building Service Employes and the Communications Workers.

But what happens? The public and the businessmen get caught up in these swirling costly attacks and counterattacks.

And for no reason except the inner ambitions of some regional over-the-road barons. What price glory and bigger dukedoms?

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
A THOUGHT AT CHRISTMAS TIME

"This year, during Yuletide, phone or call on some sick or lonely person and wish him Happy Holidays. You could be his only caller the entire season of well wishing, joy sharing and renewing old acquaintanceships. A tangible gift isn't necessary. The gift of friendship is the greatest gift within man's means. (Our emphasis).

"If more people tried this giving of themselves at Christmas, there might well be less time to dwell on one's own worries, real or imaginary, less excuse for finding synthetic happiness in a bottle, fewer homes facing a holiday season with some loved one absent -- forever -- a victim of the awful and growing toll exacted during the holiday season by drivers with .15% blood alcohol.

"We'll not wish you a merry Christmas nor a Gladstone New Year. Whatever your fortune or misfortunes this past year, they are so much better than the rest of the world that this should be a season of thanksgiving for the gifts of freedom and democracy and friendship and the right to vote and to elect a President of a Faith they said could never be elected -- all these are rays of new hope in any country and more especially in our own. In time, intolerance and bigotry may be as absent from the hearts of men as we like to think they are absent at Christmas. (Our emphasis). Peace on Earth, Good will toward All Men!

AN ALPHABET OF CHRISTMAS WORDS

Unicorn comes from two Latin words meaning "one horn." Its place in ecclesiastical lore results from the myth that no hunter could capture it by force, but must be taken by trick.

The hunter was required to lead a virgin to the unicorn's place, and in her presence the animal would go to sleep. This has been interpreted as an allegory of the Annunciation and Incarnation.

Vigil comes from the Latin "vigilia," meaning watchfulness. In English its meaning is ecclesiastical; the eve of a festival or holy day becomes a vigil, or time of watching.

Wassail originally was a simple saluation, probably from Old Norse "Ves" and "heill." It meant "be in good health," or "be fortunate." Its use as a drinking formula arose among Danish - speaking inhabitants of England before the 12th Century.

* * *

While the majority of Christmas cards this year still picture the well-loved symbols of bells, candles, holly, poinsettia, and so on, it is interesting that modern American scenes are becoming popular, as are birds and animals not traditionally connected with Christmas. However, "Merry Christmas" is still the most popular greeting.

Chance of a Lifetime. In Detroit, Edward Jefferson was acquitted after he told the judge how he happened to knock a policeman to the sidewalk: "I saw a big bee land just above the officer's collar on the back of his neck and I didn't want him to get stung, so I hit the bee as hard as I could."

One of the top items on our own Christmas list is the wish for a lack of laryngitis in Sikeston during the holidays.

This city is blessed with some of the most beautiful songsters -- a remark that applies both to the singers and the quality of their voices and their song.

They sing in the Community Choir, in the church choirs and in other vocal groups.

What a drab community this would be without them.

They toil throughout all the weeks of the year, improving their singing, serving without pay.

The Christmas music is among the prettiest there is until its repetition begins to cause the ear to rebel.

The remedy for this is to tune out the Christmas music programs on radio and television.

A person needs to pace himself in this as it all other things. Tolerance is a virtue.

This is a happier season because of Sikeston's numerous and talented singing groups.

It is selfish of us but we wish for them all good voices unhampered by either silencing or distorting germs of any description.

Deck the halls with holly and let the voices be lifted in melodic Christmas music.

May the talented and public spirited singers all have a particularly harmonious Christmas and a melodic New Year.

This could be the year when Christmas door decoration may really come into its own. For years we have been wrapping our doors to look like enticing Christmas packages, or decorating them to express a greeting to guests even before we welcome them personally. A brand-new book on Christmas decoration pictures a pine-cone-and-nut frame for a card that can so easily be mistaken for a sumptuous door "painting" that the idea is almost certain to be picked up by those with time and imagination who would like something personal and utterly beautiful for their doors this year. With a dramatic card supplying the motif, and a good supply of nuts, cones, dried fruit and other dried material to surround it, no two doors could ever look alike. And what an exciting addition to American "Christmas Art!"

PROMOTION FOR CARNEY

Southeast Missouri is losing its district highway engineer, W. D. (Dale) Carney. Head of District 10's highway-building unit since 1963, Carney is being promoted to chief engineer of the Missouri State Highway Department's Bridge Division at Jefferson City. The promotion takes effect February 1.

It is interesting to note that Carney, who was quite happy in his post as district engineer, is being moved to Jefferson City to head a division that will have for its principal project the Mississippi River bridge connecting the Bootheel with western Tennessee. Under Carney's direction, this work is assured of competent supervision and direction.

We congratulate Carney on his new appointment, and welcome his successor, William H. Shaw, a native of Illmo who is now a field liaison engineer in the maintenance and traffic division in Jefferson City.

The Bootheel will miss Carney's effective, competent leadership; we are hopeful the same qualities will be present in his successor.

NEW YORK (AP) — The inevitable question asked Gerald Green is, how do you combine the careers of television producer and novelist?

Green's sad face draws into a slight smile as he says, "It isn't as dramatic as people think. The two careers don't overlap. I take time off to write.

"When I was younger I used to work weekends intensely and one night a week," he said. "I wrote 'The Last Angry Man' while working on the 'Today' show. I couldn't do that again."

Nevertheless, the latest efforts from both careers are about to make their bows just weeks apart.

His newest book, his eighth, is "To Brooklyn With Love," the January Book-of-the-Month Club selection, and "American Profile: The Forgotten Peninsula," a documentary on Baja California with Joseph Wood Krutch, was shown on the NBC television network Friday, Dec. 8.

The book tells the story of 12-year-old Albert Abrams, the son of a neighborhood doctor, as he grows up in the Brownsville slums of Brooklyn. Like several of Green's other books, it is partly autobiographical.

Green, a balding, husky six-footer wearing black suspenders decorated with fishing flies, said he now limits himself to two television documentaries a year and devotes the rest of his time to writing.

Comparing the two fields, he said, "I suppose a book is completely your own. Compared to any artistic expression it's the most satisfying. But writing is nerve-wracking and lonely. I bleed a lot. Television is more fun and I find it relaxing."

His first book was "His Majesty O'Keefe," a biography of a self-proclaimed king of a South Sea island. "I wrote that with Larry Klingman when we both worked the overnight shift at the International News Service," he said.

"We'd come in a few hours early and write until it was time to start work. It was made into a movie with Burt Lancaster and it's still around on the late, late show."

A movie also was made of "The Last Angry Man," a fictionalized story about his father — a Brooklyn neighborhood doctor.

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY:

OAS OFFICIAL FIRED

On Nov. 26 Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson reported that one of the top OAS lobbyists for a new secretary general was Luis Raul Betances, OAS administrative director, despite the fact that OAS officials were forbidden to try to influence the election. Betances, it was reported, had been decorated by Panama and was lobbying for the Panamanian Ambassador.

WASHINGTON -- Freedom of the press and the efficiency of diplomacy are clashing in Vietnam. American diplomats appear frustrated and furious over American newspaper stories, and have complained in dispatches to Washington that the U.S. press seems to be working against them. The press alienates sensitive Asian leaders faster than the diplomats can placate them, it is alleged.

What happens is that Asian leaders read the American newspapers and news magazines avidly and seize upon the slightest insult, real or fancied, to blow up a storm. Diplomats are convinced that it was the American Press which turned both Prince Sihanouk of Cambodia and Newin of Burma against the United States.

Prince Sihanouk has bitterly resented Glib Press descriptions of him as "mercurial" and "volatile." References to his saxophone - tootling, playboy past have turned him purple with rage.

One reason why the state department encouraged Jacqueline Kennedy to visit Cambodia was to mellow Sihanouk toward the United States. But state department diplomats claim that American newsmen took advantage of Sihanouk's new leniency to do some snooping. They discovered what they claimed was a vacated Viet Cong camp inside Cambodia. Angrily, Sihanouk returned to his rigid, anti-American stance and thereafter barred all U.S. newsmen from his country.

General Ne Win of Burma was also softening toward America when he read a recent issue of Time magazine which incorrectly reported that he was isolating himself from the public and that the U.S. was supplying him with counter - insurgency weapons in violation of his netrality policy. Like Sihanouk, the General immediately hardened again toward Washington.

IRKED KING OF THAILAND

Even Thailand's King Bhumibol, strongly pro-American, has got his back up at times over U.S. Press reports. He was incensed, for example, over stories that he had been afraid to step out of his helicopter during a set-down in the troubled northeast region of his country. Actually, he had started out boldly from the helicopter, but his security guards pleaded with him to come back.

He was furious, too, over press descriptions of his troops in Vietnam as "mercenaries." Actually they are poorly - paid soldiers, many of them draftees, from the regular Thai army. The king was also upset over embarrassing -- and inaccurate -- news reports that U.S. planes were bombing communist positions inside Thailand.

Asian leaders, who largely control their own press, have difficulty separating U.S. news accounts from official pronouncements. They also haven't developed the American politicians' tough skin regarding press criticism. Result: A news story such as Time's recent report on Burma can actually cause a setback in diplomatic relations.

In this case, time told of the reported shipments of U.S. counter - insurgency weapons to Burma and the presence of a mission to train Burmese pilots. Time added that the United States was not anxious to get bogged down in Burma, declaring: "The country's rapid rate of deterioration makes South Vietnam seem almost a model of stability."

The story was lifted straight out of the far eastern economic review, which published it under the byline of Peter Boog. He is described in diplomatic dispatches as an "unreliable" news stringer who worked for several years in Burma and moved recently to Hong Kong.

The truth is that no U.S. shipments of counter-insurgency weapons have been requested by Burma nor are any anticipated. Furthermore, General Ne Win was touring Burma, mingling with his people first in northern Burma then in southern Burma, during the period Time Magazine reported he "had not been seen in public."

While such inaccuracies would hardly disturb a U.S. politican, the article outraged Ne Win and seriously damaged American-Burmese relations.

CAPITOL NEWS CAPSULES

Ungrateful guest -- the American Embassy in Zambia gave a party honoring south African folk singer Mirian Makeba, who has appeared on the Ed Sullivan show and other TV broadcasts in this country. Immediately after the party in her honor, Miss Makeba headed straight for Tanzania to appear on the same platform with the black power rabble - rouser, Stokely Carmichael, where she sang anti-American, pro - communist songs. The rally was so viciously anti - American and stirred up such anti-American sentiment that 12 American passengers aboard a ship in port were warned it would be dangerous for them to go ashore.

Greek troublemaker -- Gen. George Grivas, ordered home from Cyprus to avert war between Greece and Turkey, has been precipitating the Cyprus crisis by killing Turkish Tyriots. The incident nearly provoked war with Turkey and forced the Greek military Junta to make humiliating concessions, including the withdrawal of 18,000 Greek troops from Cyprus. This was what touched King Constantine's revolt.

GOP Dust Twins, Albert Quie, Minn., and Charles Goodell, N.Y., finally came to a parting of the ways over the OEO antipoverty bill. Quie voted for the bill, Goodell voted no. Quie explained on the floor that he had done a lot of soul-searching, but did not reveal that he was under heavy pressure from civil and church groups in Minnesota who want to provide jobs for the poor.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Teamsters Launching New Labor Federation by 'Raiding' Fields Ranging From Radio and TV to Toys and Airports

Washington, D. C.: -- Suddenly it is coming through clear and loud that the Teamsters brotherhood is being a lot less fraternal toward other union chiefs than it was even under the ailing and imprisoned Jimmy Hoffa.

"The Teamsters are raiding the hell out of all of us," a union leader observed the other day pointing to a confidential survey of the brotherhood's recent activities all the way from New York to Los Angeles and Portland, Ore.

An examination of the data on the brotherhood's raids of other union jurisdictions now appears to prove on startling conclusion:

The Teamsters are organizing a sprawling labor federation of their own reaching into fields far from the nation's highways -- a federation stretching from movie studios to radio stations to newspapers to missile and space bases, football fields, communication corporations, airports and even toy shops.

The Teamsters objective is a minimum membership of 2 million in the very nerve centers of the U. S.

They're reaching into white areas everywhere. Recently they invaded the jurisdiction of the National Assn. of Broadcast Employes and Technicians (NABET) in the movie production studios of a national telebision network. Any office staff in the regions near a strong Teamsters' local is fair game.

"They're raiding us everywhere," this correspondent was told by Howard Coughlin, "new young breed" type president of the Office and Professional Employes which has contracts with the big stock exchanges as well as in highly classified executive suites at nuclear installations and advanced weaponry plants.

"We beat them recently when they attempted to take 1,600 employes from our union in just one company. But they're at us all the time."

Apparently no union is too big for the Teamsters to take on in frontal attacks. Recently, the survey reveals, the brotherhood, now actively directed by Frank Fitzsimmons who may or may not have control over the swashbuckling locals, moved in on the United Auto Workers, the United Steelworkers, the Building Service Employes, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the International Union of Electrical Workers, the Sheet Metal Workers, the Seafarers, the Chemical Workers and some construction unions.

These organizations make up the infrastructure, the inner establishment of the AFL-CIO. So the challenge is there though unnoticed by the public because of raids on established unions are spread across the entire country.

What now concerns both labor and federal observers is the expansion of the Teamsters into areas new to them.

Not too long ago the unsavory Teamsters Local 295 drove the powerful transportation workers union from the strategic air freight sections of New York's Kennedy Airport. Local 295 then was run by John McNamara, a friend of both Jimmy Hoffa's and the Johnny Dio bloc of East Coast operatives now being investigated.

The Teamsters, also not too long ago, began whipping its communications division into shape. It absorbed the old American Communications Assn. (ACA) which has been unaffiliated since it was ousted from the former CIO. That section now is headed by Joe Selly, long considered a militant left winger.

It has its ambitions set on the radio and television fields as well as expanding its power into the RAC type of international cable communications. Not the least of its objectives is to take the tens of thousands of American Tel. and Tel. employes from Joe Beirne's Communications Workers of America.

Add to this the fact that the Teamsters also have been raiding the American Newspaper Guild and the Bookbinders at some newspaper and printing plants and the image grows stranger.

The raids and the fact that the Teamsters have not applied to the AFL-CIO for readmission despite Hoffa's inevitable long imprisionment, conviences national labor leaders that the brotherhood first wants to launch its own union federation. This can be done without any change in title, or merely by replacing words in the full name (Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Helpers, etc.) with such words as "Communication, Production, Transport."

So the labor leaders are doing what comes naturally. They are developing flying squads of their own, a technique now being used in Los Angeles. When the Teamsters raid one union, the others send in their crack business agents to defend a local which might crack under the brotherhood's assault.

Furthermore, the Teamsters sound more awesome than they are in some areas. Not only has Coughlin's Office and Professional Employees beat them back, but so have the Building Service Employes and the Communications Workers.

But what happens? The public and the businessmen get caught up in these swirling costly attacks and counterattacks.

And for no reason except the inner ambitions of some regional over-the-road barons. What price glory and bigger dukedoms?

Oran Hands Matthews First Loss

ORAN -- Forcing the district's top rated Matthews Pirates into 24 floor mistakes and capitalizing on the one-two punch of Guard Don Evans and Center John Johnson, the Oran Eagles sped past the previously unbeaten basketball Pirates 92-77 Saturday night.

It was a much better game than the score indicated but the game was controlled from late in the first period until the final buzzer by the Eagles. Evans' out-court scoring attack and John Johnson's wheeling and dealing under the basket maneuvers proved too much for coach Jim Hart's small crew

Matthews shot out into an early six-point first period lead behind the out-court shooting of Leonard Bishop and Amon Ring. It then hit a cold spell and was quickly overhauled by the raging Eagles, who rolled up a 23-19 first period lead and never trailed again.

Oran's defense was the major factory in the victory, forcing the Pirates into more mistakes than they have made in their last four outings altogether. The Eagles press stymied the Pirates early and kept them intact for the victory.

It was the first loss in 11 outings for Coach Hart's Pirates, who rolled through a 30-2 season last year.

Although getting into early foul trouble, the Eagles calmly ripped the Pirates with an outside scoring attack of Bobby Williams and Evans, who bombed for 14 and 24 points respectively while the inside track was being kept hot by "Big John" Johnson, who ripped off 23 points and pulled 15 rebounds.

Although losing the services of Fred Johnson and Williams early in the final period the Eagles had the game wrapped up as they pulled out into a 19-point lead twice during the encounter.

Coach Gene Bess' unit went into the game fired up and came out the same way, ending the Pirates winning streak at 10.

It was the 11th win for Coach Bess' Eagles, who have lost only once at the hands of Scott County Central in the Oran invitational.

Matthews' outside attack rolled up 48 points with guards Leonard Bishop and Among Ring burning the nets for 25 and 23 points but lacked the inside punch against the taller Oran quintet.

Not only did the Pirates take a whipping on the scoreboard but they suffered a 43-26 slashing on the boards.

Oran rolled up 20 or more points in each of its four quarters while the Pirates managed a 20 or more period in the final two.

Rebs Host Pirates In Tuesday Battle

A number of Southeast Missouri High School cage teams are idle this week as the Christmas holiday rolls around and teams prepare for the district's three Christmas tournament classics.

Only one of the 18 encounters scheduled for tomorrow night is of major importance and that's Matthews going to Richland.

The Pirates, who suffered their first defeat of the season Saturday night at the hands of Oran, 92-77, will mark their third straight top game after starting with Howardville Friday and then meeting Oran and now the Rebels.

Richland, two-time loser, is one of the taller units in the district this season and is the district's leading scorer with a 94.8 mark.

There are 24 games slated for this week with 18 of those set for tomorrow night, two Thursday and four Friday.

After Friday night's encounters, Southeast Missouri's regular schedule action doesn't resume unit Jan. 2. It then rolls along until regional tournament time with large Friday night cards.

Notre Dame, the only undefeated basketball team in the district will take its undefeated slate into the Cape Girardeau Christmas classic starting a week from tomorrow while Matthews goes into the Bloomfield holiday affair top seeded and Southland in the Senath-Hornersville tourney the same way. All had been unbeaten until this past week.

The Schedule:

Tuesday Night

Perryville at Farmington
Fist at Bloomfield
Holcomb at Clarkton
North Pemiscot at Risco
Portageville at S. Pemiscot
Delta at Advance
Illmo-Scott City at Sikeston
Charleston at Chaffee
Parma at Scott Central
Naylor at Neelyville
Southland at Malden
Bell City at Bernie
St. Vincents at Patton
Morehouse at Delta C-7
Matthews at Richland
New Madrid at East Prairie
Gideon at Caruthersville
Dexter at Puxico

Thursday Night

Three Rivers Notches 7th

POPLAR BLUFF -- Ben Johnson of Hayt led Three Rivers junior college Raiders past Forrest Park of St. Louis 82-42 Saturday night with 17 points, leading an 11-man basketball scoring barrage.

It was the seventh win of the season for the Raiders, who are in the first year of operation.

Three Rivers rolled up a 49-14 first half lead and worked with their reserves in posting the victory.

The defensive work of the Raiders dominated the first half. Of the 14 points, the St. Louisians scored there were only two field goals.

Larry Scales and Gary Vejvoda teamed to score 11 points apiece in leading the visitors' scoring. Henry Verner, a former Charleston high cager, got three points during his playing time. He was one of three former Bluejays on the team.

Scoring:

Cats Maul Falcons

BLOOMFIELD -- Shocking Memphis, Kingsbury high school cagers with a 44-24 setback, the Bloomfield Wildcats took their eighth season win with a balanced scoring attack and vicious defense Saturday night.

Coach Frank Sifford's Cats manuevered their way to a 10-2 first quarter lead and put up a defensive wall that limited the Tennesseans to 10 points in three periods. The Bloomfield cagers rolled up 36 and held a 41-10 lead early in the final period.

Wayne Corse with 15 and Glenn "Rawhide" Williamson and Dennis Underwood with 11 and 10 points respectively sparked the Wildcat victory, their second in two days over a Memphis prod ct.

The loss was the second suffered by the Falcons in their two-day visit to the Bootheel, their first coming Friday night at the hands of the high scoring Oran Eagles. It was it's third of the season to go with three wins.

Larry Collins led the Falcons scoring with seven points.

Kingsbury didn't lose it all as it took a 33-25 junior varsity victory.

Next for the Cats is Fisk, who visits tomorrow night.

Flat Rivers' Peterson Cracks Up In Grand Prix

FREEPORT, Bahamas (AP) -- The new champion of Grand Bahama auto racing is Tony Jeffries, a slender South African who is a mechanic by trade, and a man who dreams of becoming the road racing champion of the world.

Fighting off an early challenge from Americans and a late rush by a pack of Austrians, the 26-year-old Jeffries roared to victory Sunday in the Grand Prix of Formula V and carried off his biggest jackpot in six years of racing, a $10,000 prize.

When he won by the close margin of 17 seconds over the Austrian Formula V champion, Dieter Quester, the black-haired South African knew he had been in a fight every inch of the way.

John Ryan of Griffin, Ga., gave Jeffries a battle for 100 miles and then the Austrians moved up to his tailpipe to push him for the last 100.

"The Americans drive too hard," said Jeffries, who calls Johannesburg his home but works for Capital Motors, a garage in Pretoria. "I had to set a faster pace than I thought would be necessary.

"If this had been a sprint race, an American would have won. But in a race of this length, they push too hard," Jeffries said.

The Austrians pushed hard, too, in the stretch run, but Jeffries survived with trouble-free performance from a car he helped design.

In a race so close that less than a minute separated the first five cars at times, Jeffries took the checkered flag of victory 17 seconds before the arrival of Quester at the finish line.

Jeffries and George Von Straaten designed the 1,500 cc car which won Sunday's race and Von Straaten built it from scratch. This was the first time the 1500 models, which dominated the race over the older 1200 series cars, had been in race competition.

Bluff Splits On Road Trip

WEST PLAINS -- Bruce Holloway's eight-foot jumper gave the final buzzer sounded gave the Poplar Bluff Mules a 61-59 victory Saturday night over the West Plains cagers. It was the 17th and 18th points for the Mules' guard.

Poplar Bluff made it a split of it's weekend trip to the west. It suffered an 80-72 defeat Friday night against Springfield Hillcrest in three overtime periods.

Both were battles from the beginning. The Mules battled West Plains to a 17-17 first period and then fell back by one at the half. It remained that one point back at the end of three but took a 15-12 fourth period edge for the win.

Bluff made it a sweep with the varsity win. The junior varsity opened with a 50-46 victory.

Mike Powers led the West Plains cagers with 18 points while Holloway topped the Poplar Bluffians with 18 and was followed by Ben Wyatt's 16 and Dennis Payne's 15.

Scoring:

College Cagers Assemble For Holiday Tournaments

By the Associated Press

Third-ranked Vanderbilt, which survived a determined bid by an underdog, and sixth-ranked Boston College, which didn't, lead the way into college basketball's annual round of holiday tournaments this week.

The Commodores, who outlasted Duke 76-75 Saturday night, open their own invitational tournament in Nashville, Tenn., Friday with a game against Seton Hall. Oregon meets Wake Forest in the other first-round game.

The Eagles, upset in 91-90 overtime by St. John's, N.Y. meet North Carolina State Wednesday in a first-round game in the Boston Garden's invitational. Providence and LaSalle are also in the tournament.

Fourth-ranked Kentucky, which lost to North Carolina last week, hosts its tournament which opens Friday in Lexington, Ky. The Colonels play Dayton while Cincinnati meets South Carolina.

Other tournaments that get under way this week are:

Tampa, Fla., Invitational, which begins Wednesday, with Seattle, Rutgers, Auburn and St. Bonaventure.

Marshall tournament at Huntington, W.Va., which begins Wednesday with Manhattan, Bowling Green, Marshall and Virginia.

Sun Carnival at El Paso, Tex., which begins Thursday, with Maryland, the University of Texas at El Paso, Southern Illinois and San Francisco.

Sun Devil Classic at Phoenix, Ariz., which begins Thursday, with Michigan, Arizona State, Oregon State and Oklahoma State.

In addition, one tournament that started over the weekend, the Virginia-VPI Invitational at Blacksburg, Va., finishes up tonight with Yale and Virginia playing for the championship.

Vanderbilt's victory over Duke Saturday came on Bob Wyenandt's 25-foot jump shot with two seconds to go. The Blue Devils, who had won four straight, had taken the lead with 26 seconds to play on Mike Lewis' jumper.

St. John's won on two free throws by John Warren with 20 seconds left in overtime Sunday. The victory offset a 46-point performance by Boston College's Terry Driscoll, who led the Eagles trailed 48-41 at halftime.

Seventh-ranked North Carolina bumped 10th-rated Princeton from the unbeaten ranks Saturday, downing the Tigers 71-63. Sophomore Charlie Scott had 17 points for the Tarheels.

Ninth-rated Indiana beat North Carolina State 101-97 with sophomore Joe Cooke's 27 points leading the way. Calvin Murphy, Niagara's star sophomore pumped in 52 points, leading his team to a 100-83 victory over LaSalle.

ORAN -- Forcing the district's top rated Matthews Pirates into 24 floor mistakes and capitalizing on the one-two punch of Guard Don Evans and Center John Johnson, the Oran Eagles sped past the previously unbeaten basketball Pirates 92-77 Saturday night.

It was a much better game than the score indicated but the game was controlled from late in the first period until the final buzzer by the Eagles. Evans' outcourt scoring attack and John Johnson's wheeling and dealing under the basket maneuvers proved too much for coach Jim Hart's small crew

Matthews shot out into an early six-point first period lead behind the out-court shooting of Leonard Bishop and Amon Ring. It then hit a cold spell and was quickly overhauled by the raging Eagles, who rolled up a 23-19 first period lead and never trailed again.

Oran's defense was the major factory in the victory, forcing the Pirates into more mistakes than they have made in their last four outings altogether. The Eagles press stymied the Pirates early and kept them intact for the victory.

It was the first loss in 11 outings for Coach Hart's Pirates, who rolled through a 30-2 season last year.

Although getting into early foul trouble, the Eagles calmly ripped the Pirates with an outside scoring attack of Bobby Williams and Evans, who bombed for 14 and 24 points respectively while the inside track was being kept hot by "Big John" Johnson, who ripped off 23 points and pulled 15 rebounds.

Although losing the services of Fred Johnson and Williams early in the final period the Eagles had the game wrapped up as they pulled out into a 19-point lead twice during the encounter.

Coach Gene Bess' unit went into the game fired up and came out the same way, ending the Pirates winning streak at 10.

It was the 11th win for Coach Bess' Eagles, who have lost only once at the hands of Scott County Central in the Oran invitational.

Matthews' outside attack rolled up 48 points with guards Leonard Bishop and Among Ring burning the nets for 25 and 23 points but lacked the inside punch against the taller Oran quintet.

Not only did the Pirates take a whipping on the scoreboard but they suffered a 43-26 slashing on the boards.

Oran rolled up 20 or more points in each of its four quarters while the Pirates managed a 20 or more period in the final two.

Rebs Host Pirates In Tuesday Battle

A number of Southeast Missouri High School cage teams are idle this week as the Christmas holiday rolls around and teams prepare for the district's three Christmas tournament classics.

Only one of the 18 encounters scheduled for tomorrow night is of major importance and that's Matthews going to Richland.

The Pirates, who suffered their first defeat of the season Saturday night at the hands of Oran, 92-77, will mark their third straight top game after starting with Howardville Friday and then meeting Oran and now the Rebels.

Richland, two-time loser, is one of the taller units in the district this season and is the district's leading scorer with a 94.8 mark.

There are 24 games slated for this week with 18 of those set for tomorrow night, two Thursday and four Friday.

After Friday night's encounters, Southeast Missouri's regular schedule action doesn't resume unit Jan. 2. It then rolls along until regional tournament time with large Friday night cards.

Notre Dame, the only undefeated basketball team in the district will take its undefeated slate into the Cape Girardeau Christmas classic starting a week from tomorrow while Matthews goes into the Bloomfield holiday affair top seeded and Southland in the Senath-Hornersville tourney the same way. All had been unbeaten until this past week.

The Schedule:

Tuesday Night
Perryville at Farmington
Fist at Bloomfield
Holcomb at Clarkton
North Pemiscot at Risco
Portageville at S. Pemiscot
Delta at Advance
Illmo-Scott City at Sikeston
Charleston at Chaffee
Parma at Scott Central
Naylor at Neelyville
Southland at Malden
Bell City at Bernie
St. Vincents at Patton
Morehouse at Delta C-7
Matthews at Richland
New Madrid at East Prairie
Gideon at Caruthersville
Dexter at Puxico
Thursday Night
Kennett at Hayti North
Illmo-Scott City at Advance
Friday Night
Broseley at Fisk
Caruthersville at Portageville
Van Buren at Doniphan
Kelly at Matthews

Three Rivers Notches 7th

POPLAR BLUFF -- Ben Johnson of Hayt led Three Rivers junior college Raiders past Forrest Park of St. Louis 82-42 Saturday night with 17 points, leading an 11-man basketball scoring barrage.

It was the seventh win of the season for the Raiders, who are in the first year of operation.

Three Rivers rolled up a 49-14 first half lead and worked with their reserves in posting the victory.

The defensive work of the Raiders dominated the first half. Of the 14 points, the St. Louisians scored there were only two field goals.

Larry Scales and Gary Vejvoda teamed to score 11 points apiece in leading the visitors' scoring. Henry Verner, a former Charleston high cager, got three points during his playing time. He was one of three former Bluejays on the team.

Scoring:

Three Rivers (82)

Johnson 17, Stacey 14, King 5, Abernathy 5, Page 4, Haynes 6, Harmon 4, Morgan 14, Waller 4, Danner 6 and Crouch 3. Totals: FG--36; FT--10; PF--18:

Cats Maul Falcons

BLOOMFIELD -- Shocking Memphis, Kingsbury high school cagers with a 44-24 setback, the Bloomfield Wildcats took their eighth season win with a balanced scoring attack and vicious defense Saturday night.

Coach Frank Sifford's Cats manuevered their way to a 10-2 first quarter lead and put up a defensive wall that limited the Tennesseans to 10 points in three periods. The Bloomfield cagers rolled up 36 and held a 41-10 lead early in the final period.

Wayne Corse with 15 and Glenn "Rawhide" Williamson and Dennis Underwood with 11 and 10 points respectively sparked the Wildcat victory, their second in two days over a Memphis prod ct.

The loss was the second suffered by the Falcons in their two-day visit to the Bootheel, their first coming Friday night at the hands of the high scoring Oran Eagles. It was it's third of the season to go with three wins.

Larry Collins led the Falcons scoring with seven points.

Kingsbury didn't lose it all as it took a 33-25 junior varsity victory.

Next for the Cats is Fisk, who visits tomorrow night.

Flat Rivers' Peterson Cracks Up In Grand Prix

FREEPORT, Bahamas (AP) -- The new champion of Grand Bahama auto racing is Tony Jeffries, a slender South African who is a mechanic by trade, and a man who dreams of becoming the road racing champion of the world.

Fighting off an early challenge from Americans and a late rush by a pack of Austrians, the 26-year-old Jeffries roared to victory Sunday in the Grand Prix of Formula V and carried off his biggest jackpot in six years of racing, a $10,000 prize.

When he won by the close margin of 17 seconds over the Austrian Formula V champion, Dieter Quester, the black-haired South African knew he had been in a fight every inch of the way.

John Ryan of Griffin, Ga., gave Jeffries a battle for 100 miles and then the Austrians moved up to his tailpipe to push him for the last 100.

"The Americans drive too hard," said Jeffries, who calls Johannesburg his home but works for Capital Motors, a garage in Pretoria. "I had to set a faster pace than I thought would be necessary.

"If this had been a sprint race, an American would have won. But in a race of this length, they push too hard," Jeffries said.

The Austrians pushed hard, too, in the stretch run, but Jeffries survived with trouble-free performance from a car he helped design.

In a race so close that less than a minute separated the first five cars at times, Jeffries took the checkered flag of victory 17 seconds before the arrival of Quester at the finish line.

Jeffries and George Von Straaten designed the 1,500 cc car which won Sunday's race and Von Straaten built it from scratch. This was the first time the 1500 models, which dominated the race over the older 1200 series cars, had been in race competition.

Bluff Splits On Road Trip

WEST PLAINS -- Bruce Holloway's eight-foot jumper as the final buzzer sounded gave the Poplar Bluff Mules a 61-59 victory Saturday night over the West Plains cagers. It was the 17th and 18th points for the Mules' guard.

Poplar Bluff made it a split of it's weekend trip to the west. It suffered an 80-72 defeat Friday night against Springfield Hillcrest in three overtime periods.

Both were battles from the beginning. The Mules battled West Plains to a 17-17 first period and then fell back by one at the half. It remained that one point back at the end of three but took a 15-12 fourth period edge for the win.

Bluff made it a sweep with the varsity win. The junior varsity opened with a 50-46 victory.

Mike Powers led the West Plains cagers with 18 points while Holloway topped the Poplar Bluffians with 18 and was followed by Ben Wyatt's 16 and Dennis Payne's 15.

Scoring:

College Cagers Assemble For Holiday Tournaments

By the Associated Press

Third-ranked Vanderbilt, which survived a determined bid by an underdog, and sixth-ranked Boston College, which didn't, lead the way into college basketball's annual round of holiday tournaments this week.

The Commodores, who outlasted Duke 76-75 Saturday night, open their own invitational tournament in Nashville, Tenn., Friday with a game against Seton Hall. Oregon meets Wake Forest in the other first-round game.

The Eagles, upset in 91-90 overtime by St. John's, N.Y. meet North Carolina State Wednesday in a first-round game in the Boston Garden's invitational. Providence and La-Salle are also in the tournament.

Fourth-ranked Kentucky, which lost to North Carolina last week, hosts its tournament which opens Friday in Lexington, Ky. The Colonels play Dayton while Cincinnati meets South Carolina.

Other tournaments that get under way this week are:

Tampa, Fla., Invitational, which begins Wednesday, with Seattle, Rutgers, Auburn and St. Bonaventure.

Marshall tournament at Huntington, W.Va., which begins Wednesday with Manhattan, Bowling Green, Marshall and Virginia.

Sun Carnival at El Paso, Tex., which begins Thursday, with Maryland, the University of Texas at El Paso, Southern Illinois and San Francisco.

Sun Devil Classic at Phoenix, Ariz., which begins Thursday, with Michigan, Arizona State, Oregon State and Oklahoma State.

In addition, one tournament that started over the weekend, the Virginia-VPI Invitational at Blacksburg, Va., finishes up tonight with Yale and Virginia playing for the championship.

Vanderbilt's victory over Duke Saturday came on Bob Wyenandt's 25-foot jump shot with two seconds to go. The Blue Devils, who had won four straight, had taken the lead with 26 seconds to play on Mike Lewis' jumper.

St. John's won on two free throws by John Warren with 20 seconds left in overtime Sunday. The victory offset a 46-point performance by Boston College's Terry Driscoll, who led a second-half comeback after the Eagles trailed 48-41 at halftime.

Seventh-ranked North Carolina bumped 10th-rated Princeton from the unbeaten ranks Saturday, downing the Tigers 71-63. Sophomore Charlie Scott had 17 points for the Tarheels.

Truman Goes to Polls

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman voted Friday in the city's $13,975,000 capital bond election.

The 83-year-old former president was taken out for a drive during which he stopped by the polling place only a few blocks from his home.

No Christmas For Them
A whole generation of New England children grew up without Christmas because Puritan leaders in Massachusetts banned Christmas celebrations from 1659 to 1681.

Bough-Decked Halls
Druids of ancient Britain decked their halls with boughs of holly to shelter sylvan spirits threatened by frost and chill winter winds.

Truman Goes to Polls

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman voted Friday in the city's $13,975,000 capital bond election.

The 83-year-old former president was taken out for a drive during which he stopped by the polling place only a few blocks from his home.

No Christmas For Them
A whole generation of New England children grew up without Christmas because Puritan leaders in Massachusetts banned Christmas celebrations from 1659 to 1681.

Bough-Decked Halls
Druids of ancient Britain decked their halls with boughs of holly to shelter sylvan spirits threatened by frost and chill winter winds.

Curfew Law At Cape Is Challenged

CAPE GIRARDEAU, MO. -- A late-hours city ordinance enforced by city police has come under fire in city court on allegations it is unconstitutional.

Judge Vernon A. Auer assessed $20 fines against two students, Donald E. Ranson, 21, of Farmington, and Charles L. Rhodes, 25, of Rivermines, but the case was appealed by their attorney.

The attorney, William H. Frye, told the court the ordinance was vague, not enforceable and unconstitutional.

The students were arrested at 4:15 a.m. when, officers testified, "they could give no reasonable explanation" for being out at that hour.

Lt. Robert E. Gass said the students declared they were looking at a car they were thinking about buying.

The city ordinance requires all persons be off the streets at 1:30 a.m. if they have no reasonable explanation for being out and if not known by police to be of good character.

Mr. Frye contended the constitution gives people the right to walk on the streets any time they want and they are not required to tell what they are doing.

The assistant city attorney, William S. Rader, challenged Mr. Frye's contention the ordinance is unconstitutional. It is, he said, because it affords Cape Girardeau citizens protection of the law.

Judge Auer said it is not the City Court's purpose to decide the constitutionality of city ordinances and he had no choice in his verdict because the attorney for the defendants did not present a valid defense.

Steel Worker Hurt in Mine

POPLAR BLUFF -- Denver Tucker, 38, of Lesterville, suffered a crushing head injury in an accident in a mine shaft Friday. He was brought to Lucy Lee hospital and transferred to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis.

Tucker, an employe of Boyles Brothers Drilling Co., was helping move structural steel underground. The company reported that one of the beams swung around and Tucker was caught between the beam and the mine shaft's concrete wall at 4 a.m. The mine is located 22 miles northwest of Ellington.

Speed Urged On Viet Land Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the second time this year, the chairman and ranking Republican on a House subcommittee have urged U.S. officials to pressure the South Vietnamese government to accelerate land distribution and other reforms. They say the Viet Cong is way ahead of Saigon in this respect.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the South Vietnamese have pledged to take such action.

Reps. John E. Moss, D.Calif., chairman of the House foreign operations and government information subcommittee; and Ogden R. Reid, R.N.Y., told Rusk in a letter released Saturday night that land reform should begin immediately.

Sources said their letter, which charged the Viet Cong land distribution program has involved five times as much land as that of the government, contained the conclusions of a forthcoming subcommittee report.

"We trust that during the impending period of congressional adjournment," Moss and Reid wrote, "the Department of State will take such action as is necessary to make crystal clear to the government of South Vietnam the imperative nature of its undertaking a true commitment of action with regard to the pressing problems of land reform."

Rusk replied to the letter by saying the State Department already is looking toward further action by the Saigon government regarding land matters. He said this includes "the whole broader field of agricultural development and reform."

Rusk said South Vietnam's newly elected government has made clear it plans further action on land distribution and reform. He referred to Prime Minister Nguyen Loc's statement pledging the government would distribute public lands to peasants, re-establish 500,000 expired land leases and issue ownership certificates to 110,500 peasants who have bought expropriated rice fields.

On Aug. 28, Moss and Reid wrote Rusk, when the subcommittee's previous reports were issued, that "the American people have the right to expect either prompt and meaningful substantive action by the government of Vietnam to deal effectively with the problem we have detailed or a searching reassessment of the United States' position."

Reid said in a weekend interview that one major problem is the attitude of both North Vietnam and South Vietnam toward the U.S. commitment.

"I think that our government is not always taken seriously in Hanoi and is taken for granted in Saigon," he said. Reid added that officials in Saigon incorrectly tend to regard the U.S. commitment in Vietnam as an "indefinite blank check."

Six Officers Of Church Installed

Two elders and four deacons were installed at the Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian church yesterday morning by the Rev. Lindy Cannon, pastor. Their terms begin Jan. 1.

Installed as elders were Keith Conrad and Lennie Whitworth and as deacons, Peter Myers, Charles Arbaugh, Warren Manning and Edgar Johnson.

Sign Ordinance Hotly Protested

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — An "Out to Lunch" sign taped to the window of a bookstore near the University of Michigan brought the store's owner a $16 fine.

A service station owner was ordered to remove two signs distinguishing the men's room from the ladies' room.

A church claims it would have to move its bulletin board from outside the front of the church back into the choir loft.

The suit was brought Thursday by attorney James Crippin on behalf of some 170 businessmen and clergymen.

Circuit Judge James Breaky Jr., set a hearing for Dec. 21, at which time the city will have to show cause why it should not be enjoined from enforcing the sign law.

Bus Crash Kills 3 Soldiers; 20 In Hospital

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Sixteen soldiers injured in a crash of their chartered bus Saturday were released from hospitals Sunday and flown home.

They were among 39 soldiers, most of them from Missouri and Kansas, aboard the bus en route home for Christmas when it skidded off a highway in western Texas.

Three died in the accident. They were Privates Anthony Washington, 17, and Raymond Edward West, 21, both of Kansas City, and Billy B. Teeter, 21, of Weatherby, Mo.

Among the 16 released:

From Missouri — William Walker, Mount Vernon; James Wall, Versailles; Larry Snyder, Preston; James George, Rothville; Charles Mauzey, Brunswick; Stephen Klein, Leroy Spear, David Maget and Jerry Conner, all of St. Joseph, and Eugene Reagan, Kansas City.

Among the 20 still hospitalized but described as in good condition:

From Missouri — Melvin Thomas, St. Joseph; Vernon Branch, Stover; Joseph Andrews, Gravois Mills; James Crist, Hamilton; Edward Swodeland, Excelsior Springs; Clifford Overturf, Harrisonville, and Harold Austin and Paul Dunn, Kansas City.

Sunday the 16 filed past Brig. Gen. Robert H. Safford, their commander, to get $250 checks from a company that insured the occupants of the chartered bus.

Safford, a former assistant commander of the 2nd Armored Division at Ft. Hood in central Texas, handed out the checks. The insurance company provided the money as "an advance payment on any claim" the soldiers might file regarding the accident.

Ft. Bliss said all the hospitalized men were in good or satisfactory condition at William Beaumont Army General Hospital.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Claus finds the key to open the door. Beyond the wall are bands of rollicking pygmies and flying reindeer. When the pygmies catch the deer, Tweedleknees tries to save them.

No matter how much was eaten, the pot stayed full.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
THE PYGMIES

THE PYGMIES stared at Patrick Tweedleknees.

"Who are you? What are you doing here?" they demanded.

The elf glared back but he had never been so scared. He could not imagine how he had found the courage to face the fierce pygmies.

He saw the reindeer flying overhead. They rose and dipped, round and round, like horses on a merry-go-round.

"You said you were going to have reindeer meat for supper," growled Tweedleknees.

"And why not?"

"You ought to be ashamed!" exploded the elf.

The pygmies burst into laughter. "Very well! We'll have elf meat instead!"

They pounced on Tweedleknees. He twisted and writhed and bit and clawed and wormed out of their hands. He snatched up a sword and slashed off the head of the nearest pygmy.

The pygmy picked up his head and put it back on his neck. "You are a wild one!" he said admiringly. "We'll take you to our king."

"And who is your king?" asked someone. It was Claus. Unseen he had come into their midst.

"The Pigwidgen," said the pygmy. "The most powerful creature on earth."

Claus' knees shook. He wondered how he could conquer creatures who could not even lose their heads.

He tried to speak but before he could find his voice Patrick Tweedleknees said grandly, "Claus is more powerful than your old king!"

"Oh ho!" shouted the pygmies. "We shall see!"

They seized Claus and Tweedleknees and carried them off to the castle. "We will eat while we wait for the king," they announced.

Tweedleknees wondered if they meant to have him for dinner but the pygmies bent over a tiny pot of stew. They filled their bowls and ate greedily. The pot was so small Claus could not understand how it could feed so many.

He leaned over the pot. To his surprise he saw it was as full as it had been at the start. The pygmies had seconds and thirds and fourths and all the time the pot stayed full.

"Does the pot never empty?" asked Claus.

"Never," boasted a pygmy. "If you are so powerful surely you have such a pot, too."

Claus shook his head and Tweedleknees exclaimed, "He could have if he wanted but it so happens he does not care for stew."

"What then does the great Claus like?" asked the pygmies with interest.

Claus turned on Tweedleknees. "Say no more!" he begged, for he knew not what awful boast the elf might make.

But Tweedleknees would not be quiet. "He likes roast pig!" he blurted. "And he can eat more than you or your old Pigwidgen can any time of day!"

At that moment the castle door slammed and the Pigwidgen himself entered the hall.

COURT TO CONSIDER
1866 HOUSING LAW

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a two-part series on the Missouri Commission on Human Rights and its work in the field of open housing. This part will deal with the future of open housing in Missouri and possible court action affecting the problem.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. -- A Missouri lawsuit, now before the United States Supreme Court, may be the brightest hope for proponents of a fair housing statute in Missouri and throughout the country.

The court two weeks ago agreed to hear the appeal of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lee Jones of St. Louis after their suit against the Alfred H. Mayer Co. of St. Louis was dismissed by the U. S. District Court there.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones, a biracial couple, contend that the Mayer company violated the Civil Rights Act of 1866 and the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments to the Constitution.

Papers filed in the suit said that the Joneses sought to buy a house in the Paddock Woods subdivision of St. Louis County in 1965, but that the developer, the Mayer company, turned them down because Jones, a bail bondsman, was a Negro.

The Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit affirmed the District Court dismissal but offered theories under which the case could be reversed, and the Supreme Court granted review.

In dismissing the suit, the District Court held that the 1866 law and the constitutional amendments covered state action only and not private discrimination. It was on this basis that the Supreme Court in 1883 invalidated a series of civil rights acts which in large part were incorporated back into law by the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The 1964 act, however, based its authority on the commerce power of Congress -- to regulate discrimination in public accommodations which are engaged in interstate commerce.

The court has never held that a federal statute which regulates state discriminatory action would apply to private discrimination, although this argument has been made to the court on several occasions.

The court has never held that a federal statute which regulates state discrininatory action would apply to private discrimination, although this argument has been made to the court on several occasions.

There are three ways by which the Supreme Court can reverse the holding in the Jones case. The first would be to hold that the 1866 act was enacted solely under the thirteenth amendment to the Constitution and, therefore, has no "state action" limitation. The thirteenth amendment, in abolishing slavery, gives base to the argument that Congress, in abolishing slavery, also abolished any badge of slavery, including housing discrimination, in any form by any individual.

This would probably be an unlikely route, since the court would have to directly overturn more laws and authorities than by any other alternative.

The second alternative would be to accept the enactment of the 1866 act under the fourteenth amendment and broaden the concept of "state action," contending that a housing developer should be in a different category than a private homeowner, and that the effect of his discrimination would be to exclude Negroes from an entire community.

The third route would be to follow the pattern of the court in a previous case and say that Congress wanted the 1866 act to proscribe the actions of private individuals. This, too, is unlikely since this is the theory by which recent congressional legislation on open housing was defeated.

Yet, Professor William P. Murphy, a member of the Missouri Commission on Human Rights and a teacher of constitutional law at the University of Missouri School of Law has said that if the Supreme Court were in agreement with the decisions made by the lower court, they would have refused to accept this case.

If the court does rule for the Joneses in this case, it would mean there has been a federal fair housing law in existence for more than 100 years.

The Jones case not only furnishes a bright outlook for fair housing, it may well be the only practical and immediate solution to the problem. A fair housing bill was introduced in the last session of the Legislature, but was killed in both houses.

State Rep. Raymond Howard (D-St. Louis) has urged Gov. Hearnes to include a fair housing bill in his legislative program for the coming session of the Legislature, but it is doubtful that the governor will heed this call. Not only must the Legislature handle the governor's $1.2 billion annual budget, it must consider several other proposals which the governor might recommend within the 60-day time limit.

The Legislature can only consider bills which the governor includes in his special session call, and Hearnes has indicated that, because of the limited time, he will not recommend any legislation which would not stand a good chance of passing.

But Rep. Howard, who said he was acting on behalf of all 12 Negro members of the Legislature, told the governor that lack of adequate housing for Negroes was a "legitimate and immediate concern of the state." He has said there would be little chance of such legislation being passed without the governor's support.

Action by the Supreme Court would not preclude legislative action by the state, but a favorable result in the Jones case could take some of the pressure off of legislators -- who also were more inclined to wait until after the 1964 Civil Rights Act before they passed their own public accommodations law. Although Congress is considering a 1967 Civil Rights Act, including a fair housing provision, it does not appear that it will act on the measure in the few days remaining in this session.

Thus, the only immediate hope lies with the Supreme Court -- and reversal in the Jones case may be too great a step at one time.

New Weapon Sprays Shot Like Shotgun

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has started using what amounts to huge artillery shotgun shells against the Communists in South Vietnam sources report.

New artillery rounds fired in regular 105mm Howitzer pieces spray thousands of dart-shaped steel shafts over broad areas of jungle or open territory.

One well-aimed round can kill hundreds of enemy troops massing for an attack.

Military men report the weapon has been used with lethal effectiveness in such actions as Communist charges against American artillery positions below the Demilitarized Zone.

"I've seen reports of enemy soldiers actually being nailed to trees by these things," one officer commented.

Information on the antipersonnel cartridge has been cleared for publication by the Defense Department's security review office but defense officials decided not to announce its development through the Pentagon. A possible reason was the ugly nature of the weapon.

The new artillery round was first sent to the war zone on a test basis but is expected to become a standard ammunition item. It still bears its experimental designation of XM546.

Army officials say the round can be used either for close-in defensive fire or conventional direct fire.

It works this way: The round is fired into the air by a propelling charge, then explodes in flight projecting thousands of shafts specially made to fly nose first. A fuse on the projectile allows commanders to set the distance at which the dart package bursts.

Each shaft weighs 8 grains. The entire round weighs 28 pounds and is slightly over 34 inches long. Its fuse begins ticking away as the projectile spins out the artillery tube.

Some Children Seek Kicks in Medicine Chest

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Kids looking for kicks from drugs find "a major supply" in their own homes where they play "medicine cabinet roulette," says Florida's arch foe of dope peddlers.

"Mama's overweight and she's on diet pills . . . or the old man can't sleep, so he has a supply of sleeping pills . . . and Aunt Sue's been nervous and upset and she has tranquilizers," said Ray Bellinger, inspector in charge of the Florida State Bureau of Narcotics.

All these prescription pills, he said, are casually stocked in the family bathroom.

"The children are well aware of the colors and shapes of these pills," Bellinger said in an interview, "because they see them in school every day."

In "our pill society," Bellinger said, the children freely turn to their homes for a supply of their own.

Bellinger said he knew of "any number of cases of kids that got involved with pills" found in the home. Some required hospital treatment.

"This is a major supply of drugs for kids," Bellinger said. "The majority of those found in high schools come from the family medicine cabinet."

The newest wrinkle in the Miami area, Bellinger said, involves the smoking of cigarettes made for asthma victims. Several children were hospitalized after smoking the special cigarettes, which can be bought without prescription.

Bellinger said he had started a campaign of telephoning druggists, asking them not to sell the cigarettes to minors.

Cough syrup, he said, is a major problem among young people.

"And how they drink all that gunk for a drop of codeine is beyond me. It's disgusting. But I've known them to drink up to a quart a day. They drink. They throw up, and then they drink some more," Bellinger said.

PORTAGEVILLE -- Winners of the Christmas lighting contest sponsored by the Portageville Garden Club were announced Friday night.

First, second and third prizes of $25, $15 and $10 were awarded to winners in ward I and ward II.

Winners in ward I were first, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Marr; second, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Cross and third, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Threlkeld. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Bud Gowan and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Graham.

Ward II winners were first, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson; second, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fields and third, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Richardson. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Bracey and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cook.

The American Red Cross collected 2,460,800 units of blood from July 1, 1966, through April 30, 1967.

Consumption Of Motor Fuel In State Rises

JEFFERSON CITY -- Dec. 15 -- Missouri highway users will consume a record 2,005,544,000 gallons of motor fuel during 1967, the Missouri Oil Council reported.

John H. Denman, executive director, said that the estimated 1967 figure represents an increase of three per cent over 1966 gallonage.

"Greater motor fuel consumption means greater tax collections," Deman pointed out. He said that Missouri's 5-cent-a-gallon levy on motor fuel will yield an estimated $97,488,000 to the state for 1967. This does not include revenue from the four cent-a-gallon federal tax on gasoline, he noted.

Motor fuel tax receipts again constituted the largest single item in the state highway-user tax category, which includes registration fees and other special taxes imposed on vehicle use.

Denman added that the figures are based on reports from the U. S. bureau of public roads.

It has been estimated that 12,000 people drift in and out of St. Peter's in Rome on a usual day.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Claus finds the key to open the door. Beyond the wall are bands of rollicking pygmies and flying reindeer. When the pygmies catch the deer, Tweedleknees tries to save them.

No matter how much was eaten, the pot stayed full.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN
THE PYGMIES

THE PYGMIES stared at Patrick Tweedleknees.

"Who are you? What are you doing here?" they demanded.

The elf glared back but he had never been so scared. He could not imagine how he had found the courage to face the fierce pygmies.

He saw the reindeer flying overhead. They rose and dipped, round and round, like horses on a merry-go-round.

"You said you were going to have reindeer meat for supper," growled Tweedleknees.

"And why not?"

"You ought to be ashamed!" exploded the elf.

The pygmies burst into laughter. "Very well! We'll have elf meat instead!"

They pounced on Tweedleknees. He twisted and writhed and bit and clawed and wormed out of their hands. He snatched up a sword and slashed off the head of the nearest pygmy.

The pygmy picked up his head and put it back on his neck. "You are a wild one!" he said admiringly. "We'll take you to our king."

"And who is your king?" asked someone. It was Claus. Unseen he had come into their midst.

"The Pigwidgen," said the pygmy. "The most powerful creature on earth."

Claus' knees shook. He wondered how he could conquer creatures who could not even lose their heads.

He tried to speak but before he could find his voice Patrick Tweedleknees said grandly, "Claus is more powerful than your old king!"

"Oh ho!" shouted the pygmies. "We shall see!"

They seized Claus and Tweedleknees and carried them off to the castle. "We will eat while we wait for the king," they announced.

Tweedleknees wondered if they meant to have him for dinner but the pygmies bent over a tiny pot of stew. They filled their bowls and ate greedily. The pot was so small Claus could not understand how it could feed so many.

He leaned over the pot. To his surprise he saw it was as full as it had been at the start. The pygmies had seconds and thirds and fourths and all the time the pot stayed full.

"Does the pot never empty?" asked Claus.

"Never," boasted a pygmy. "If you are so powerful surely you have such a pot, too."

Claus shook his head and Tweedleknees exclaimed, "He could have if he wanted but it so happens he does not care for stew."

"What then does the great Claus like?" asked the pygmies with interest.

Claus turned on Tweedleknees. "Say no more!" he begged, for he knew not what awful boast the elf might make.

But Tweedleknees would not be quiet. "He likes roast pig!" he blurted. "And he can eat more than you or your old Pigwidgen can any time of day!"

At that moment the castle door slammed and the Pigwidgen himself entered the hall.

COURT TO CONSIDER
1866 HOUSING LAW

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a two-part series on the Missouri Commission on Human Rights and its work in the field of open housing. This part will deal with the future of open housing in Missouri and possible court action affecting the problem.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. -- A Missouri lawsuit, now before the United States Supreme Court, may be the brightest hope for proponents of a fair housing statute in Missouri and throughout the country.

The court two weeks ago agreed to hear the appeal of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lee Jones of St. Louis after their suit against the Alfred H. Mayer Co. of St. Louis was dismissed by the U. S. District Court there.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones, a biracial couple, contend that the Mayer company violated the Civil Rights Act of 1866 and the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments to the Constitution.

Papers filed in the suit said that the Joneses sought to buy a house in the Paddock Woods subdivision of St. Louis County in 1965, but that the developer, the Mayer company, turned them down because Jones, a bail bondsman, was a Negro.

The Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit affirmed the District Court dismissal but offered theories under which the case could be reversed, and the Supreme Court granted review.

In dismissing the suit, the District Court held that the 1866 law and the constitutional amendments covered state action only and not private discrimination. It was on this basis that the Supreme Court in 1883 invalidated a series of civil rights acts which in large part were incorporated back into law by the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The 1964 act, however, based its authority on the commerce power of Congress -- to regulate discrimination in public accommodations which are engaged in interstate commerce.

The court has never held that a federal statute which regulates state discriminatory action would apply to private discrimination, although this argument has been made to the court on several occasions.

The court has never held that a federal statute which regulates state discrininatory action would apply to private discrimination, although this argument has been made to the court on several occasions.

There are three ways by which the Supreme Court can reverse the holding in the Jones case. The first would be to hold that the 1866 act was enacted solely under the thirteenth amendment to the Constitution and, therefore, has no "state action" limitation. The thirteenth amendment, in abolishing slavery, gives base to the argument that Congress, in abolishing slavery, also abolished any badge of slavery, including housing discrimination, in any form by any individual.

This would probably be an unlikely route, since the court would have to directly overturn more laws and authorities than by any other alternative.

The second alternative would be to accept the enactment of the 1866 act under the fourteenth amendment and broaden the concept of "state action," contending that a housing developer should be in a different category than a private homeowner, and that the effect of his discrimination would be to exclude Negroes from an entire community.

The third route would be to follow the pattern of the court in a previous case and say that Congress wanted the 1866 act to proscribe the actions of private individuals. This, too, is unlikely since this is the theory by which recent congressional legislation on open housing was defeated.

Yet, Professor William P. Murphy, a member of the Missouri Commission on Human Rights and a teacher of constitutional law at the University of Missouri School of Law has said that if the Supreme Court were in agreement with the decisions made by the lower court, they would have refused to accept this case.

If the court does rule for the Joneses in this case, it would mean there has been a federal fair housing law in existence for more than 100 years.

The Jones case not only furnishes a bright outlook for fair housing, it may well be the only practical and immediate solution to the problem. A fair housing bill was introduced in the last session of the Legislature, but was killed in both houses.

State Rep. Raymond Howard (D-St. Louis) has urged Gov. Hearnes to include a fair housing bill in his legislative program for the coming session of the Legislature, but it is doubtful that the governor will heed this call. Not only must the Legislature handle the governor's $1.2 billion annual budget, it must consider several other proposals which the governor might recommend within the 60-day time limit.

The Legislature can only consider bills which the governor includes in his special session call, and Hearnes has indicated that, because of the limited time, he will not recommend any legislation which would not stand a good chance of passing.

He has said there would be little chance of such legislation being passed without the governor's support.

Action by the Supreme Court would not preclude legislative action by the state, but a favorable result in the Jones case could take some of the pressure off of legislators -- who also were more inclined to wait until after the 1964 Civil Rights Act before they passed their own public accommodations law. Although Congress is considering a 1967 Civil Rights Act, including a fair housing provision, it does not appear that it will act on the measure in the few days remaining in this session.

Some Children Seek Kicks in Medicine Chest

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Kids looking for kicks from drugs find "a major supply" in their own homes where they play "medicine cabinet roulette," says Florida's arch foe of dope peddlers.

"Mama's overweight and she's on diet pills . . . or the old man can't sleep, so he has a supply of sleeping pills . . . and Aunt Sue's been nervous and upset and she has tranquilizers," said Ray Bellinger, inspector in charge of the Florida State Bureau of Narcotics.

M.U. Charts Future on St. Louis Campus

COLUMBIA -- In view of the rapid growth of the St. Louis campus of the University of Missouri and its projected and increasing role in higher education in the St. Louis metropolitan area the University is undertaking to chart its future long-range development in St. Louis.

William L. Pereira & Associates of Los Angeles, a nationally - known firm with a background of master planning for other University at St. Louis in relation to the entire area. From the data obtained, the University officials will evaluate the best manner in which to develop the physical facilities to implement most efficiently the plans for the growing academic programs.

Basically the study is designed to enable the formulation of a comprehensive master plan that will result in an orderly and adequate physical growth integrated and coordinated with the constantly expanding academic offerings. Long-range academic plans for the campus are already being developed by various academic committees. The Pereira study will consider space requirements, locations and accessibility of buildings and how presently existing and planned facilities will best serve the urban population.

University administrators consider a study of this type essential preparation for a continuing expansion which has seen the St. Louis campus grow from an enrollment of 672 in 1963-64 to 6,550 for the current semester, with an enrollment of more than 11,000 projected for 1975.

The Pereira planning and architecture firm was selected for the study because of its extensive experience in conducting comparable evaluation projects for the various campuses of the University of California. Among the individual campuses for which it has evaluated development needs are the University of California at Irvine, University of Southern California, Occidental College, and Hawaii Loa College at Oahu. It has also designed many campus buildings for these and for other institutions of higher learning.

In conducting the study the firm will contact numerous firms and agencies in the metropolitan area, including city and county planning departments, the St. Louis Board of Education, junior college district administrators, local and state regional offices of road and highway departments, and physical plant directors at St. Louis, Washington and Southern Illinois universities.

Teach Child to Write Own Thank-you Notes

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Teaching children to write thank-you notes can be a problem, and with Christmas coming most mothers will be faced with it again. I have found an easier way with my youngest boy. I bought a name stamp for him. He puts this on a plain sheet of paper which he has folded in half for his very own personal thank-you notes. This makes the job more interesting for this one as my other boys thought letter writing was just for girls.—FLORENCE

DEAR POLLY—Children just do not like to write letters. To solve the problem, get pretty picture post cards that show your city or any other nearby places of interest. Rule pencil lines on them and have the child write just two or three sentences as thank-you notes for gifts. They can be quickly done, before interest lags. Grandparents, other relatives and especially cousins their own age love them. Good habits are more easily established in a pleasant way.—MARY E.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I hope one of the girls can tell me how to prevent mildew. When our house was recently remodeled the small closets were sheetrocked on the inside and now some of our clothes have mildew on them.—LOUISE

DEAR POLLY—My suggestion is for newlyweds who may not have decorations for their first Christmas tree. If the bride has saved the bows from her shower and wedding gifts they can be used as very impressive ornaments. We used only tree lights and different-colored bows as ornaments. With a needle and thread, run through the bow to make a loop for the hanger. Two small bows could even be tacked together. More Junior Colleges Expected To Be Committee Recommendation

KENNETT-- A comprehensive study being made under the sponsorship of the Missouri Commission on Higher Education is expected to bring about recommendations for creation of additional junior college districts in Missouri, including one in the Bootheel area.

Missouri Weekly has learned that the commission is now sponsoring a comprehensive study that is expected to have far - reaching effects on the state's junior college system, as well as stimulating the formation of additional districts in Southeast Missouri.

Several Bootheel Schools are taking part in one of the phases of the study, a questionnaire that has been distributed to pupils in the fourth grade and a different questionnaire for juniors in high school. Kennett, as well as several other Bootheel area schools, has already received the questionnaire and results have been returned to the Commissioner on Higher Education in Jefferson City.

Dr. Ben Morton, executive director of the commission, told Missouri Weekly today that the comprehensive study is being made by a team of experts from Michigan State University at East Lanson, Mich. The team is under the direction of Dr. Max Smith, head of the Michigan State Community College Division. Five other members of Dr. Smith's staff are also involved in the study.

Financing of the state-wide study has been possible through the receipt of a federal education grant in the amount of $60,000.

Dr. Smith has conducted similar studies in Michigan, Illinois and Ohio; his recommendations have been followed in both Michigan and Illinois and are now being considered in Ohio. State - wide junior college systems in both Michigan and Illinois have been patterned by recommendations made by Dr. Smith.

Dr. Morton confirmed that the Bootheel area is one of the geographic areas under special study by Dr. Smith's study unit. Several Bootheel - area schools are included in the 170 school districts selected for close study.

One of the phases of the study includes the distribution of college - intention questionnaries among all fourth grade pupils within a school district. The questionnaire, this one given to eleventh graders, is completed by the students themselves rather than the parents. Questionnaires distributed among both grades in the Kennett School District have already been returned to the commission.

Dr. Morton told Missouri Weekly that the state-wide plan is expected to bring forth recommendations on Missouri's junior college system "from top to bottom." He said this would include not only recommendations for the creation of additional junior college system "from top to bottom." He said this would include not only recommendations for the creation of additional junior college districts but would also include recommendations governing legislation to be enacted by the General Assembly, different methods of financing and perhaps even the creation of a separate junior college authority in Missouri.

At the present time, the authority is in the Missouri Department of Education, although Dr. Morton noted that in some states, such as California, a separate junior college authority has been established and transferred from the public education division.

Dr. Morton also noted that the comprehensive study could bring forth recommendations that state assistance to junior colleges be increased. Under a bill signed into law earlier this year, the state now provides one-half of the operating costs of a public junior college district. The executive director of the state commission said the group's recommendations could call for increased state participation in costs.

The study is also expected to project community college needs in all sections of the state, paying attention to present state colleges and universities but not necessarily restricted by their presence in an area.

Dr. Morton said the study will pay particular attention not only to a proposed junior college district in the Bootheel but to one that has been projected for an area embracing parts of Scott, New Madrid, Stoddard and Mississippi Counties.

Dr. Morton stated that in his opinion the 1961 Junior College Act did not lend itself to the creation of a comprehensive junior college system in Missouri. He said one of the functions of the study will be to recommend overall legislation that would permit the creation of a state-wide system of junior colleges, designating areas that needed designated areas that did not require such educational units.

The study, which was funded last July by the federal government, got its official start last month with the approval by the Commission on Higher Education of an outline of study by Dr. Smith.

Under the junior college section, four proposals were submitted for study by Dr. Smith and approved by the commission. These four included:

1. Make a detailed demographic study of the state;

2. Develop alternative plans for districting of the entire state, utilizing the results of the study of the "present status of public junior colleges in Missouri" and the state-wide criteria:

3. Analyze the districting proposals through: (1) Student aspiration studies, (2) Business and industry needs studies, (3) Attitude sampling within the districts, and (4) Demographic data;

4. Propose a comprehensive plan for the establishment and expansion of jujnior college districts in Missouri.

Dr. Morton told Missouri Weekly that a previous study of the state's junior college system, which recommended the creation of two community colleges in Southeast Missouri, would be incorporated in the present survey, although not all recommendations of the initial study would be adopted.

The comprehensive plan being prepared by Dr. Smith's study group will be completed July 1, the date it must be submitted to the Commission on Higher Education.

Architects Work on M.U. Building Sketches

COLUMBIA -- The board of curators of the University of Missouri has authorized architects to proceed with working drawings for a $2,000,000 social sciences classroom building to be erected on the mall of the campus.

The building will be located at Rollins street just west of the Thomas A. Brady Commons, its buff brick exterior and design conforming with that of the Commons and the Arts and Science buildings in that area. It will have a ground floor and three other levels.

As now planned, the building will contain 35 classrooms, two lecture halls, 21 faculty offices, two seminar rooms and several special purpose rooms. Each lecture hall will have a seating capacity of 130.

The social sciences building is projected as the first unit of a central classroom complex for undergraduate students which is included in long range planning for the Columbia campus. Its completion is part of the program to counteract a trend of recent years in which available classroom space per student has declined. Since 1963, even with the addition of physical facilities, the building program has not kept pace with enrollment increases.

The Missouri state legislature in its last session appropriated $1,333,333 for the social sciences building. The University will apply for a Federal grant of an additional $666,666 under Title I of the Academic Facilities Act.

The architects are Hellmuth, Obata and Kassabaum, St. Louis.

M.U. Charts Future on St. Louis Campus

COLUMBIA -- In view of the rapid growth of the St. Louis campus of the University of Missouri and its projected and increasing role in higher education in the St. Louis metropolitan area the University is undertaking to chart its future long-range development in St. Louis.

William L. Pereira & Associates of Los Angeles, a nationally - known firm with a background of master planning for other University at St. Louis in relation to the entire area. From the data obtained, the University officials will evaluate the best manner in which to develop the physical facilities to implement most efficiently the plans for the growing academic programs.

Basically the study is designed to enable the formulation of a comprehensive master plan that will result in an orderly and adequate physical growth integrated and coordinated with the constantly expanding academic offerings. Long-range academic plans for the campus are already being developed by various academic committees. The Pereira study will consider space requirements, locations and accessibility of buildings and how presently existing and planned facilities will best serve the urban population.

University administrators consider a study of this type essential preparation for a continuing expansion which has seen the St. Louis campus grow from an enrollment of 672 in 1963-64 to 6,550 for the current semester, with an enrollment of more than 11,000 projected for 1975.

The Pereira planning and architecture firm was selected for the study because of its extensive experience in conducting comparable evaluation projects for the various campuses of the University of California. Among the individual campuses for which it has evaluated development needs are the University of California at Irvine, University of Southern California, Occidental College, and Hawaii Loa College at Oahu. It has also designed many campus buildings for these and for other institutions of higher learning.

In conducting the study the firm will contact numerous firms and agencies in the metropolitan area, including city and county planning departments, the St. Louis Board of Education, junior college district administrators, local and state regional offices of road and highway departments, and physical plant directors at St. Louis, Washington and Southern Illinois universities.

Teach Child to Write Own Thank-you Notes

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Teaching children to write thank-you notes can be a problem, and with Christmas coming most mothers will be faced with it again. I have found an easier way with my youngest boy. I bought a name stamp for him. He puts this on a plain sheet of paper which he has folded in half for his very own personal thank-you notes. This makes the job more interesting for this one as my other boys thought letter writing was just for girls.—FLORENCE

DEAR POLLY—Children just do not like to write letters. To solve the problem, get pretty picture post cards that show your city or any other nearby places of interest. Rule pencil lines on them and have the child write just two or three sentences as thank-you notes for gifts. They can be quickly done, before interest lags. Grandparents, other relatives and especially cousins their own age love them. Good habits are more easily established in a pleasant way.—MARY E.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I hope one of the girls can tell me how to prevent mildew. When our house was recently remodeled the small closets were sheetrocked on the inside and now some of our clothes have mildew on them.—LOUISE

DEAR POLLY—My suggestion is for newlyweds who may not have decorations for their first Christmas tree. If the bride has saved the bows from her shower and wedding gifts they can be used as very impressive ornaments. We used only tree lights and different-colored bows as ornaments. With a needle and thread, run through the bow to make a loop for the hanger. Two small bows could even be tacked together. The variation in types, colors and sizes make a most decorative first tree.—A NEWLYWED

Pool Pledge Fails to Halt Gold Rush

LONDON (AP) — The new pledge by the U.S. government and its six partners in the gold pool to keep the price at $35 an ounce failed to halt the gold rush in Europe and the drain on America's stock when the markets opened today.

Demand was heavy in the main European market in London, although not as heavy as the demand for 50 tons at the opening of the market Friday. The normal demand in London is about five to 10 tons a day.

The Paris market tapered off but sales remained considerably above normal with six tons sold. Twelve tons were sold Friday.

In Zurich, where banks funnel most of the buying orders to London, demand was steady. Bankers said the pressure was slightly weaker after the weekend announcement by the U.S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

For the sixth time since the British devalued the pound a month ago, the United States announced it would not raise the selling price of gold. It added that the operations of the London market would continue unchanged despite widespread rumors that some form of restriction was being worked out to keep gold from filtering out of U.S. and European official reserves into the hands of private speculators.

The London gold price opened at $35.19½ an ounce, a shade down from Friday's price but still only one-quarter of a cent above the official ceiling. The Zurich price opened a bit lower, then rose during the morning in an indication of steady demand.

In Paris and Frankfurt, pressure came off the dollar and it steadied in currency markets. During the weekend banks and private holders had unloaded dollars in expectation of some announcement that could have brought devaluation of the dollar. Now they were apparently buying back the dollars to resume normal business.

U.S. officials had been hoping that the weekend reaffirmation would steady the gold markets.

Black Muslim Joins FBI Wanted List

WASHINGTON -- Zelma Lavone King, an alleged "Black Muslim," who reportedly professes a violent hatred for white people and who is now being sought in connection with a triple homicide, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

On May 6, King allegedly shot to death his landlady and two other individuals in a Chicago apartment following an altercation over a refrigerator belonging to the landlady which King reputedly tried to sell without authority.

A Federal warrant issued at Chicago, Illinois, on May 19, 1967, charges King with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

King has reportedly been active in Nation of Islam Negro supremacy activities and has allegedly participated in racial disturbances on Chicago's west side.

He has a lengthy arrest record dating back to 1957 and has been convicted of such offenses as vagrancy, assault, carrying a concealed weapon, auto theft, and disorderly conduct. He was arrested by the Chicago Police Department on May 3, 1967, three days before the triple murder, for allegedly attempting to rape a 19-year-old girl.

King is a Negro American who was born at Raymond, Miss., on July 27, 1942. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 160 to 165 pounds, has a slender build, light complexion, black hair and brown eyes. He has hair bumps on his neck and has had all of his teeth removed. He may wear full dentures.

He is said to be normally quiet and reticent and to be very neat and clean in appearance. He reportedly collects rare coins, enjoys cooking, likes fruit juices and hot chocolate and prefers associating with older people.

King has been known to hop freights when in trouble and is believed to be in possession of a .38 caliber revolver with at least 100 rounds of ammunition. He should be considered extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning this fugitive is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of telephone directories.

Seated are Herman Lawrence, instructor, and Mrs. Richard Golden of Chaffee community action agency coordinator.

Certificates Awarded Adults

Members of the adult education groups of the Northwest Scott County Community Action Agency were presented certificates of recognition at a final session of reviewing and testing.

Refreshments of cup cakes, punch, coffee and mints were served from a table decorated with Christmas motif in honor of the recipients.

Receiving certificates in adult basic education class were Hope Guzmon, Sue Hampton and Mary Eatmon, all of Oran.

Receiving certificates in general education development class were Lorena Halter, Maureen Tidmore and Elsie Kellum, all or Oran, and Wanda Bennett, Glenda Blue and Shirley Sullinger, all of Chaffee.

Nixon Still in Front Among GOP Party Pros

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is still the first pick among Republican party professionals for the GOP presidential nomination but two other top unannounced prospects are closing his lead, a new poll says.

Elsewhere on the political scene, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, only major announced GOP candidate, is in Moscow and indications were he would meet Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin; Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said President Johnson is in political trouble in his home state of Texas, and Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a critic of the Vietnam war, said he's seriously thinking of entering the Indiana Democratic presidential primary as a favorite-son candidate.

The Gallup Poll said Sunday that while 52 per cent of the Republican county chairmen still prefer Nixon as the party's 1968 standard-bearer, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is ahead of him for the first time in the East. In a similar poll last April, Rockefeller was a weak third in the East behind Nixon and Romney.

Dr. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, said Gov. Ronald Reagan of California has made enough gains among the party chairmen to make him second choice for the nomination, with 24 per cent of the professionals listing him as first preference. Rockefeller scored as first choice with 14 per cent, Romney 5 per cent and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois 6 per cent.

Romney, on a foreign tour, is in the Soviet Union for two days. The Soviet government told the U.S. Embassy Romney will meet Soviet officials. While neither the Soviets nor the embassy would say which leaders, indications were it would be Kosygin.

Nixon was in Moscow last March but top officials there declined to see him.

Romney later will visit South Vietnam.

College Personnel Session at M.U.

COLUMBIA -- An institute for advanced study in college-student personnel work will be conducted at the University of Missouri, during the 1968-69 academic year. It will be supported with a grant of approximately $250,000 from the U. S. Office of Education.

Thirty participants from all parts of the nation who are presently engaged in professional education work will be accepted for the training. The Institute will be similar to one presently being held on the Columbia campus. Both programs have been organized at the request of the Office of Education.

Dr. Robert Callis, dean of extra-divisional Administration here, will direct the institute. He a will direct the institute. He said the program will provide training in various areas of student personnel work for enrollees who are now or plan to be engaged in such activities, yet lack the necessary training. The program is intended to prepare participants for professional staff status, so they can qualify for roles as chief personnel officers on college campuses.

The instruction will be oriented toward such areas as a dean of students' duties, financial aids, counseling, student activities, and admissions. The teaching staff will be selected from University professional staff in the behaviroal sciences, higher education, testing and counseling, computer science, and other pertinent areas.

The 30 applicants who qualify may receive stipends of $75 a week during the period of the Institute, plus $15 a week for each dependent and a waiver of incidental fees.

Dr. Callis said to be eligible an applicant must have completed at least one semester and not more than three semesters of graduate study appropriate for personnel work with students.

An applicant also must be a teacher institute, area vocational school, or secondary school, and should have a desire to make the student personnel field a primary professional goal.

Dr. Callis explained junior college participation will be emphasized. The program is a part of the university's over-all recognition of the growing development of junior colleges and their importance in providing undergraduate training for an increasing number of potential university students. It also fits into the role of the University of Missouri in helping provide professional training for junior college staff members who will maintain the educational standards requisite for university study.

Participants who complete the program satisfactorily may earn 30 hours of graduate credit toward a graduate degree. Dr. Callis said it is anticipated some enrollees may stay on to work toward dectorates or others may continue toward master's degrees or certificates.

Dr. Callis pointed out the strong interest in such a program is evidence by the wide geographical distribution of paricipants in the 1967-68 Institute. They come from such distant states as Florida, Arizona, Washington, Oregon, Maryland, and Michigan, as well as from Missouri and adjacent states.

Information concerning the Institute and applications for admission may be addressed to Dr. Robert Callis, 203 Mark Twain Hall, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., 65201. Applications should be requested immediately.

Odd Contraption Plays Role in Porpoise Study

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — 'It's a ghastly way to travel," ays Prof. Ken Norris of the odd ontraption he calls his "seasick nachine."

Realizing it will make him ick, he'll scrunch inside the ramped craft Tuesday and set ut on an underwater voyage ailing porpoises for science and he Navy.

The goal: Finding out why the orpoise "does a lot of things etter than the Navy."

The minisubmarine is an 8,000 conversion of a jet plane uel tank, equipped with an air upply and steering controls and illed halfway with plastic foam or buoyancy.

In the 25-mile trip from this oastal city south of Los Angeles to Catalina Island, Norris ill study the swimming and sonar abilities of the seagoing nammals.

The project caught the eye of he Navy, which gave him a 15,000 grant for what it calls AOC, mobile observation chamber.

Norris, a 42-year-old associate professor of zoology at the University of California at Los Angeles, has dubbed it the USS Semisubmersible Seasick Machine.

"The porpoise does a lot of things better than the Navy, and the Navy wants to know how," he says.

"A porpoise has a marvelous sonar," he said of its ability to sense objects with sound echoes. "It can tell the difference between two kinds of metal. It can single out an aspirin-sized pebble under water."

Pool Pledge Fails to Halt Gold Rush

LONDON (AP) — The new pledge by the U.S. government and its six partners in the gold pool to keep the price at $35 an ounce failed to halt the gold rush in Europe and the drain on America's stock when the markets opened today.

Demand was heavy in the main European market in London, although not as heavy as the demand for 50 tons at the opening of the market Friday. The normal demand in London is about five to 10 tons a day.

The Paris market tapered off but sales remained considerably above normal with six tons sold. Twelve tons were sold Friday.

In Zurich, where banks funnel most of the buying orders to London, demand was steady. Bankers said the pressure was slightly weaker after the weekend announcement by the U.S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board.

For the sixth time since the British devalued the pound a month ago, the United States announced it would not raise the selling price of gold. It added that the operations of the London market would continue unchanged despite widespread rumors that some form of restriction was being worked out to keep gold from filtering out of U.S. and European official reserves into the hands of private speculators.

The London gold price opened at $35.19¾ an ounce, a shade down from Friday's price but still only one-quarter of a cent above the official ceiling. The Zurich price opened a bit lower, then rose during the morning in an indication of steady demand.

In Paris and Frankfurt, pressure came off the dollar and it steadied in currency markets. During the weekend banks and private holders had unloaded dollars in expectation of some announcement that could have brought devaluation of the dollar. Now they were apparently buying back the dollars to resume normal business.

U.S. officials had been hoping that the weekend reaffirmation would steady the gold markets.

Black Muslim Joins FBI Wanted List

WASHINGTON -- Zelma Lavone King, an alleged "Black Muslim," who reportedly professes a violent hatred for white people and who is now being sought in connection with a triple homicide, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

On May 6, King allegedly shot to death his landlady and two other individuals in a Chicago apartment following an altercation over a refrigerator belonging to the landlady which King reputedly tried to sell without authority.

A Federal warrant issued at Chicago, Illinois, on May 19, 1967, charges King with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

King has reportedly been active in Nation of Islam Negro supremacy activities and has allegedly participated in racial disturbances on Chicago's west side.

He has a lengthy arrest record dating back to 1957 and has been convicted of such offenses as vagrancy, assault, carrying a concealed weapon, auto theft, and disorderly conduct. He was arrested by the Chicago Police Department on May 3, 1967, three days before the triple murder, for allegedly attempting to rape a 19-year-old girl.

King is a Negro American who was born at Raymond, Miss., on July 27, 1942. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 160 to 165 pounds, has a slender build, light complexion, black hair and brown eyes. He has hair bumps on his neck and has had all of his teeth removed. He may wear full dentures.

He is said to be normally quiet and reticent and to be very neat and clean in appearance. He reportedly collects rare coins, enjoys cooking, likes fruit juices and hot chocolate and prefers associating with older people.

King has been known to hop freights when in trouble and is believed to be in possession of a .38 caliber revolver with at least 100 rounds of ammunition. He should be considered extremely dangerous. Anyone with information concerning this fugitive is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be found on the first page of telephone directories.

Nixon Still in Front Among GOP Party Pros

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is still the first pick among Republican party professionals for the GOP presidential nomination but two other top unannounced prospects are closing his lead, a new poll says.

Elsewhere on the political scene, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, only major announced GOP candidate, is in Moscow and indications were he would meet Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin; Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said President Johnson is in political trouble in his home state of Texas, and Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a critic of the Vietnam war, said he's seriously thinking of entering the Indiana Democratic presidential primary as a favorite-son candidate.

The Gallup Poll said Sunday that while 52 per cent of the Republican county chairmen still prefer Nixon as the party's 1968 standard-bearer, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller is ahead of him for the first time in the East. In a similar poll last April, Rockefeller was a weak third in the East behind Nixon and Romney.

Dr. George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, said Gov. Ronald Reagan of California has made enough gains among the party chairmen to make him second choice for the nomination, with 24 per cent of the professionals listing him as first preference. Rockefeller scored as first choice with 14 per cent, Romney 5 per cent and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois 6 per cent.

Romney, on a foreign tour, is in the Soviet Union for two days. The Soviet government told the U.S. Embassy Romney will meet Soviet officials. While neither the Soviets nor the embassy would say which leaders, indications were it would be Kosygin.

Nixon was in Moscow last March but top officials there declined to see him.

Romney later will visit South Vietnam.

Hillis Author of Series on Computer

Durrell Hillis

Electronics Design News, a national electronics magazine will publish a two-part series of articles in its December and January issues written by Durrell Hillis. The articles describe the design and theory of operation of a microelectronic semiconductor computer memory circuit, designed by Hillis.

The circuit is the first of its kind to combine two logic forms in such a way as to utilize the advantages of both on a single semiconductor chip. Motorola's integrated circuits division in Phoenix, where Mr. Hillis is employed as a senior engineer in research and development, is producing the circuits for sale to computer manufacturers for use as extremely high speed memories.

Information can be written into or read out of the memory at the speed of 50 million times a second. Each circuit stores 16 bits of information on a semiconductor chip whose dimensions are less than one-tenth of an inch per side.

Hillis is the son of Mrs. Myrtie Lawrence of 305 Elm St. East Prairie, Mo. and G. G. Hillis of Morehouse. He is a graduate of East Prairie high school and has a masters degree in electrical engineering from Arizona State University. He is pursuing a masters degree in business administration, specializing in technical management. He has authored two publications and has three patents pending.

Driver Killed In Three-Truck Collision

POPLAR BLUFF, MO. (AP)- Aubrey E. Mitchener, 36, of Naylor, Mo., was killed Saturday in a three-truck collision about four miles south of Poplar Bluff on U.S. 67.

The Highway Patrol said a large truck sideswiped Mitchener's pickup truck then slammed into another pickup that was following the victim's vehicle.

Investigators said the heavy truck apparently had a blowout and swerved across the center line of the highway. The driver was not charged.

Mitchner died enroute to the Doctors hospital in Poplar Bluff, as the result of the crash at 11:35 a.m. when a 1954 Chevrolet truck, driven by Ben Hatton, 47, Naylor, ran over the center line.

Hatton's car sideswiped a 1956 Ford truck, driven by Mitchner, and the Halton truck struck a 1967 Dodge pickup truck driven by Mike Wallace, 36, Fairdealing.

Wallace received scratches on the forehead and a possible broken right knee.

The Mitchner body was taken to the Tarrent Funeral Home in Naylor.

Much First Class Mail Goes by Air

KANSAS CITY (AP)— Even if you mail a letter with an ordinary five-cent stamp it probably will move by air.

A Kansas City Post Office official said Thursday that 90 per cent of the first class letters here are loaded aboard an airplane if they travel 300 miles or more. The sender saves three cents an ounce.

The Kansas City Star's aviation editor, James Fisher, reported in a copyrighted story that the green, first class mail sacks outnumber the orange, air mail sacks by five-to-one as they are loaded aboard airliners here.

The crush of first class mail has become so great that several airlines have added night flights to take care of government mail contracts at 19 cents a ton mile, average. Air mail brings a 28.3 cents a ton-mile average rate to the airline carrier.

It is not unusual on these night flights, to see mail strapped into seats in the passenger compartment.

There is no guarantee, of course, that your first class letter will go by air. First it must be mailed in a city served by an airline, and second it goes "space available"— if there is room for it. Usually there is and the airlines are glad to get the business.

Eighteen months ago, little if any first class mail went by air. Today more than 600,000 pounds a week is being carried out of Kansas City.

And in a six-state area surrounding Kansas City, a score of air taxi operators are hauling passengers by day and mail by night.

The great increase does not include the Christmas rush. TWA predicts it will haul over 1½ million pounds out of Kansas City in December — twice the amount carried in November.

The Post Office Department says the cost of moving first class mail by air rather than train or truck is about the same.

The demise of the train mail is not the only reason for the increase in air-borne mail. The cost of the Railway Postoffice itself usually was about 92 cents a mile, plus the cost of clerks, etc.

"So now we move one ton one mile at 560 miles an hour by air for 19 cents," said a Post Office spokesman.

There are 14,400 scientists in New York City, according to a recent survey.

James Overall Now Officer

SAN ANTONIO -- James W. Overall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blois G. Overall of Route two, Kennett, Mo., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the air force upon graduation from officer training school at Lackland Air Force Base.

The lieutenant, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., for training as a weather officer.

Lieutenant Overall, a 1962 graduate of Holcomb, Mo., high school, received his bachelor of science degree in 1966 from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mrs. Eileen Sewald of 417-A Lake St., Sikeston, Mo.

Hillis Author of Series on Computer

Durrell Hillis

Electronics Design News, a national electronics magazine will publish a two-part series of articles in its December and January issues written by Durrell Hillis. The articles describe the design and theory of operation of a microelectronic semiconductor computer memory circuit, designed by Hillis.

The circuit is the first of its kind to combine two logic forms in such a way as to utilize the advantages of both on a single semiconductor chip. Motorola's integrated circuits division in Phoenix, where Mr. Hillis is employed as a senior engineer in research and development, is producing the circuits for sale to computer manufacturers for use as extremely high speed memories.

Information can be written into or read out of the memory at the speed of 50 million times a second. Each circuit stores 16 bits of information on a semiconductor chip whose dimensions are less than one-tenth of an inch per side.

Hillis is the son of Mrs. Myrtie Lawrence of 305 Elm St. East Prairie, Mo. and G. G. Hillis of Morehouse. He is a graduate of East Prairie high school and has a masters degree in electrical engineering from Arizona State University. He is pursuing a masters degree in business administration, specializing in technical management. He has authored two publications and has three patents pending.

First honeybees in the New World were brought here by the Jamestown colonists in 1607, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Driver Killed In Three-Truck Collision

POPLAR BLUFF, MO. (AP)- Aubrey E. Mitchener, 36, of Naylor, Mo., was killed Saturday in a three-truck collision about four miles south of Poplar Bluff on U.S. 67.

The Highway Patrol said a large truck sideswiped Mitchener's pickup truck then slammed into another pickup that was following the victim's vehicle.

Investigators said the heavy truck apparently had a blowout and swerved across the center line of the highway. The driver was not charged.

Mitchner died enroute to the Doctors hospital in Poplar Bluff, as the result of the crash at 11:35 a.m. when a 1954 Chevrolet truck, driven by Ben Hatton, 47, Naylor, ran over the center line.

Hatton's car sideswiped a 1956 Ford truck, driven by Mitchner, and the Halton truck struck a 1967 Dodge pickup truck driven by Mike Wallace, 36, Fairdealing.

Wallace received scratches on the forehead and a possible broken right knee.

The Mitchner body was taken to the Tarrent Funeral Home in Naylor.

Much First Class Mail Goes by Air

KANSAS CITY (AP)— Even if you mail a letter with an ordinary five-cent stamp it probably will move by air.

A Kansas City Post Office official said Thursday that 90 per cent of the first class letters here are loaded aboard an airplane if they travel 300 miles or more. The sender saves three cents an ounce.

The Kansas City Star's aviation editor, James Fisher, reported in a copyrighted story that the green, first class mail sacks outnumber the orange, air mail sacks by five-to-one as they are loaded aboard airliners here.

The crush of first class mail has become so great that several airlines have added night flights to take care of government mail contracts at 19 cents a ton mile, average. Air mail brings a 28.3 cents a ton-mile average rate to the airline carrier.

It is not unusual on these night flights, to see mail strapped into seats in the passenger compartment.

There is no guarantee, of course, that your first class letter will go by air. First it must be mailed in a city served by an airline, and second it goes "space available"— if there is room for it. Usually there is and the airlines are glad to get the business.

Eighteen months ago, little if any first class mail went by air. Today more than 600,000 pounds a week is being carried out of Kansas City.

And in a six-state area surrounding Kansas City, a score of air taxi operators are hauling passengers by day and mail by night.

The great increase does not include the Christmas rush. TWA predicts it will haul over 1½ million pounds out of Kansas City in December — twice the amount carried in November.

The Post Office Department says the cost of moving first class mail by air rather than train or truck is about the same.

The demise of the train mail is not the only reason for the increase in air-borne mail. The cost of the Railway Postoffice itself usually was about 92 cents a mile, plus the cost of clerks, etc.

"So now we move one ton one mile at 560 miles an hour by air for 19 cents," said a Post Office spokesman.

There are 14,400 scientists in New York City, according to a recent survey.

James Overall Now Officer

SAN ANTONIO -- James W. Overall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Blois G. Overall of Route two, Kennett, Mo., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the air force upon graduation from officer training school at Lackland Air Force Base.

The lieutenant, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., for training as a weather officer.

Lieutenant Overall, a 1962 graduate of Holcomb, Mo., high school, received his bachelor of science degree in 1966 from Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mrs. Eileen Sewald of 417-A Lake St., Sikeston, Mo.

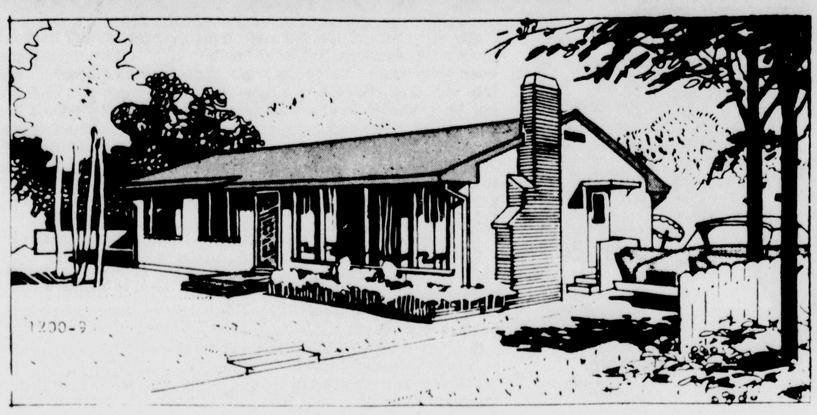
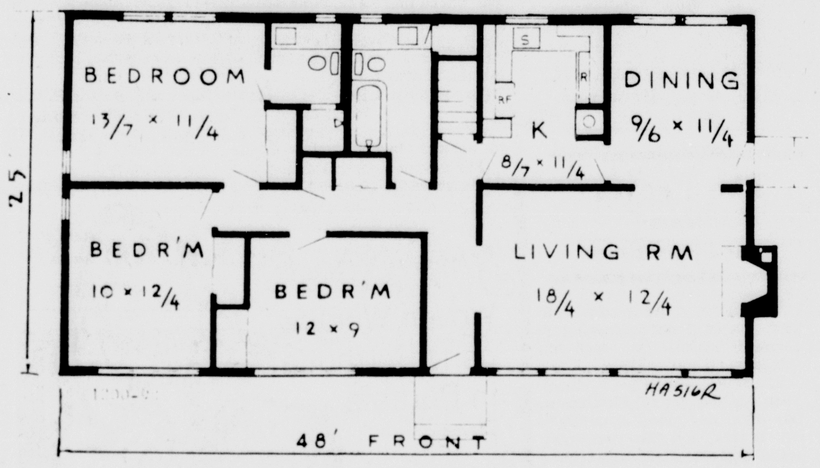
HOMES FOR AMERICANS





MAJOR ROOMS face the street in Homes for Americans Plan HA516R and service rooms face the rear garden. The central hall allows for direct access into every room of the house without crossing any other room. The living room has a three-foot-wide fireplace centered on its end wall and a six-foot-wide arch joining it with the dining area. A garage, carport and or breezeway may be added along the fireplace wall, making a dry connection between the car and the house. There is a full basement and a second fireplace may be built directly under the one in the living room. Architect is Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla. There is 1,200 square feet of space in the home.

DON'T TURN CHRISTMAS GLITTER INTO NEW YEAR LITTER. The holiday season is crisis time in the national war against litter. The Keep America Beautiful people are gloomily predicting that unless Americans this year make a conscientious effort to hold clutter down, the aftermath of festivities will be nine million cubic feet of discarded trees, decorations, boxes and gift wrappings dumped on streets and countryside—enough to fill Santa's bag three million times.

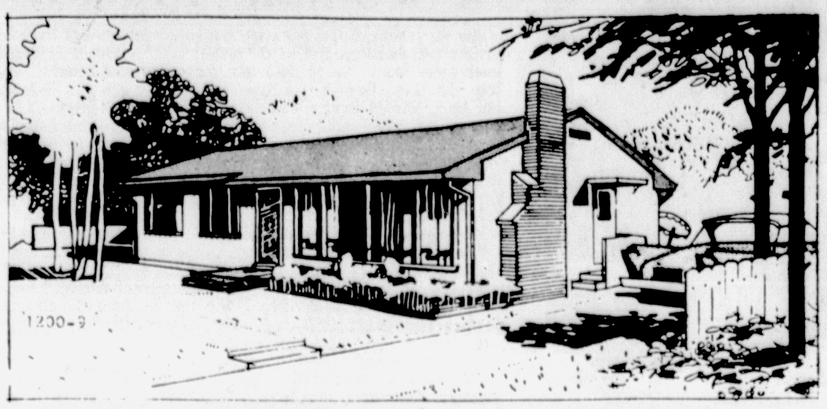
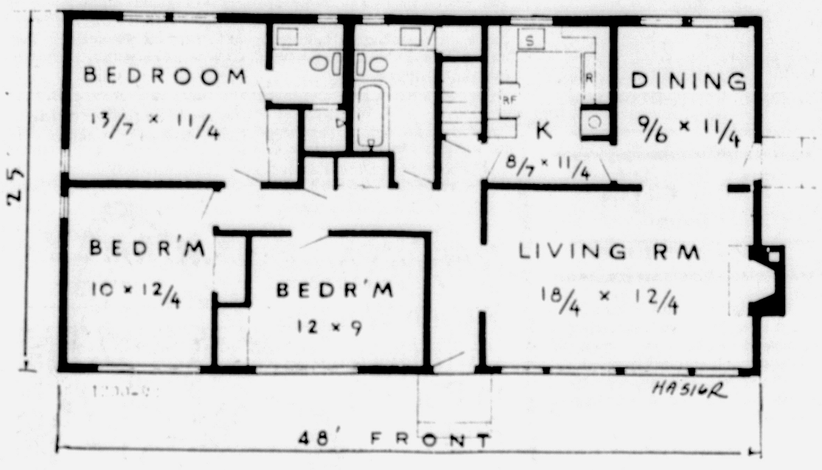
HOMES FOR AMERICANS





MAJOR ROOMS face the street in Homes for Americans Plan HA516R and service rooms face the rear garden. The central hall allows for direct access into every room of the house without crossing any other room. The living room has a three-foot-wide fireplace centered on its end wall and a six-foot-wide arch joining it with the dining area. A garage, carport and/or breezeway may be added along the fireplace wall, making a dry connection between the car and the house. There is a full basement and a second fireplace may be built directly under the one in the living room. Architect is Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla. There is 1,200 square feet of space in the home.

DON'T TURN CHRISTMAS GLITTER INTO NEW YEAR LITTER. The holiday season is crisis time in the national war against litter. The Keep America Beautiful people are gloomily predicting that unless Americans this year make a conscientious effort to hold clutter down, the aftermath of festivities will be nine million cubic feet of discarded trees, decorations, boxes and gift wrappings dumped on streets and countryside—enough to fill Santa's bag three million times.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

One of the chief causes of nervous tension can be bypassed if one doesn't watch the commercials for nervious tension remedies.

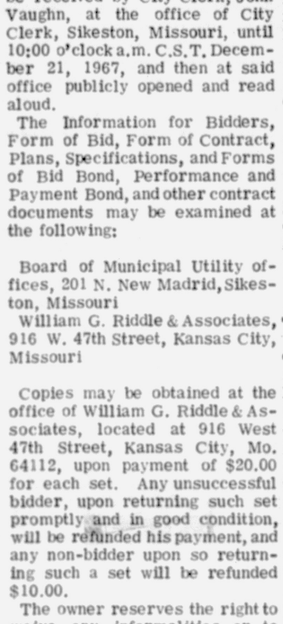
* * *

At the prices they're charging, don't you think the morning and afternoon work-breaks should be "coffee brokes"?

* * *

They call the sick person a "patient" because that's what you have to be to get in to see a doctor these days.

A drive-in we know all too well serves chicken-in-a-basket, but they might first take it out long enough to cook it.



POINT OF VIEW is important in contemplation, according to this British flower child, who apparently liked the way things looked from an upside-down position while participating in a recent love-in that included about 20,000 hippies on the grounds of the Duke and Duchess of Bedford at Woborn Abbey, England.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO THE LANDOWNERS OF RICHLAND DRAINAGE DISTRICT

You are hereby notified that the Annual Meeting of all the owners of land and other property within the Richland Drainage District of Scott and New Madrid Counties, Missouri, and all persons interested in any said lands, will be held in the meeting room of the Sikeston Production Credit Association office, 240 North Kingshighway in the city of Sikeston, Missouri, beginning at 10:00 O'clock on the morning of Monday, January 8, 1968, for the purpose of electing one member of the Board of Supervisors for a term of five years and transcating any other matters that may come before the meeting.

The polls will open from 10:00 o'clock in the forenoon til 1:00 o'clock in the afternoon of said date. Each owner of land is entitled to one vote for each and every acre of land owned by him in the district. All powers-of-attorney, must be in writing and signed by the owner of said land.

Nalls Country Club Bar-B-Q opened today on Highway 61 north of Sikeston. The cafe will be managed by Mr. and Mrs. Edward LeCoure of St. Louis and Mary Burns will be in charge of the cooking.

Sikeston High School basketball teams won and lost at Morehouse last night in A and B team games. The Bulldogs A team was defeated 33 to 31 in a rather poorly played game which the Sikeston team lost through their inability to make good on free throws. The B team won 30 to 25.

Dear Santa Claus: Christmas will soon be coming. How are you and your reindeer? I'm being good. I want a football suit and a new football and some games. It is cold up in Sikeston. How are you up in the north pole? I like you a lot. I want some candy, nuts and apples. I'll see you Christmas. Goodbye. Love, George Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Boardman, 826 Lake street, observed their 50th wedding anniversary on December 16. They are parents of four children, Herb, Herman and Chalres Boardman and Mrs. Virginia Young all living in Sikeston.

Thomas B. Allen of Sikeston was elected as new president of the SEMO Shrine Club at a meeting at Portageville last night.

Miss Jean Altom of Sikeston was one of 16 students at Murray State College to be selected to appear in the publication "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" for 1947-48.

In a fall at her home Monday, Mrs. Emma Carroll suffered a fractured arm bruises and a cut on the head.

Hospital notes. Mr. and Mrs. Joe D. Causey of Sikeston are parents of a daughter born on the 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Bell of Matthews are parents of a daughter born December 16. Other girls born on the 16th were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elfrank of Sikeston; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Barnes of Sikeston.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. William Paylor of Sikeston, a son on the 16th.

Two babies were born on the 17th. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Smith and a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cook, both of Sikeston.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Alberson of Vanduser are parents of a son born today.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blanton are entertaining with a party Friday evening at the Country Club for their daughter, Miss Anne, who arrived yesterday to spend the holidays with her family.

High school notes. The annual candlelight services, first held 12 years ago, when the present seniors were in the first grade, will be observed in the school gymnasium tomorrow afternoon. Seventy-eight seniors and 99 juniors, the largest number ever participating, will place lighted candles in the frame, forming the letter "8" with a star.

Ann Landers

Mother, Who Mailed Daughter Birth Control Pills, low Rated

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 18-year-old girl who is away at college. This is my freshman year. Guess what I received this morning from my mother. Today is my birthday and I knew she would not forget. When I opened the box I almost keeled over. Birth control pills!

I am not only shocked but deeply hurt. What does my mother think I am doing here anyway? I have no use for these pills and, furthermore, I consider this gift a vote of no confidence.

Attached to the bottle was a note which read: "You may not need these, but here they are just in case."

What do you think of a mother who would send her daughter such a gift? Please give me your opinion because I am awfully upset. My first inclination was to send them back. Should I? --- CLASS OF '71

Dear Class: Yes. Tell your mother you have no use for the pills and you're sorry she wasted her money.

As for what I think of a mother who would send her 18-year-old daughter such a gift--I'll say it in two words. Very little.

Dear Ann Landers: Why don't you quit kidding the public? I am sick and tired of your newspaper columnists who insist on using pictures that are 20 years old. I happen to know that you have three grandchildren. So either come clean and let us see what you really look like or drop that mug shot altogether. --NEW YORK POST READER

Dear N.Y.: The picture that runs with my column was taken six months ago. I hope your retouch artist did not lift my sagging chin or remove the lines in my face. They are my credentials for living and I have earned them.

Dear Ann Landers: How do other wives deal with this problem? I can't be alone in this.

My husband and I go a party--either at a club or the home of friends or relatives. George says hello to everyone, heads for the liquor and belts down four martinis. He becomes loud, raucous and sometimes obscene -- telling a couple off-color jokes. Then suddenly he announces he is going into the other room because "it's too hot in here."

He then disappears and after awhile a friend goes to check on him. The report is that good old George is asleep on the bed or couch or the floor.

He refuses to eat before we leave the house because it "takes the edged off" and he doesn't want to "miss anything." Consequently, he misses out on everything. Occasionally one or two of the men in our social group gets tanked on New Year's Eve, but nobody we know gets dead drunk every time he goes to a party. What do you have to say about this? -- ACCOMPANIED BUT ALONE

Dear A: Your husband's desire to get smashed as quickly as possible indicates he is uncomfortable with people and wishes to escape.

As for what you can do about it, the answer is -- not a pea pickin' thing. Nobody ever solved a booze problem for a second party. Only when your husband realizes he has a problem can something be done about it. So, my dear, endure what you cannot cure.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder. (Isaiah 9:6)

PRAYER: Father, we thank Thee for the joy of Christmas. Day after day may it abide in our hearts, and Thy redeeming power make us disciples of peace in our troubled world. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

If You Were the Judge

Search for Narcotics On Woman Approved

Shapely Betsy had a fantastic figure, but she didn't have the brains or common sense to match it. A known narcotics user, she went on more trips than an airline hostess. One trip she took, however, without the aid of drugs was to Mexico. Upon her return, a customs inspector took one look into her glassy eyes and ordered her into another room where, in the presence of a doctor, she was ordered to strip.

As suspected, some of Betsy's shapely bulges did not belong to Betsy. On the contrary, they were formed by hidden packages of narcotics that Betsy was attempting to sneak into the United States.

Arrested and charged with smuggling, Betsy was indignant. "You can't just tell a girl to go into a room and strip her," she complained in court. "Aside from the fact that it's highly improper, it doesn't sound very constitutional either. Therefore, the search was illegal and the evidence found can't be used against me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the evidence to be used against Betsy?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a customs inspector cannot search a person's body on whim. But where there are facts present that clearly indicate smuggling, he may search a person's body in detail. In this case, there were sufficient facts present to warrant the search. Betsy was a known narcotics user, her eyes were glassy indicating the use of drugs, etc.

Surtax Down But Not Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — Down but not out is the status of President Johnson's battered proposals to add 10 per cent to everyone's income tax.

As Congress adjourned Friday, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills' Christmas present for the President was an announcement that his House Ways and Means Committee will again hold hearings on the surcharge proposal.

Industrial Output Jumps Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's industrial output took its sharpest jump in three years during November, partly reflecting settlement of the Ford Motor Co. strike, the Federal Reserve Board reported Friday.

The board said its index of industrial production rose 2.6 points to 159 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. This was the highest level of the year but still short of the record 159.5 per cent of last December.

Tempt a teenager this weekend.

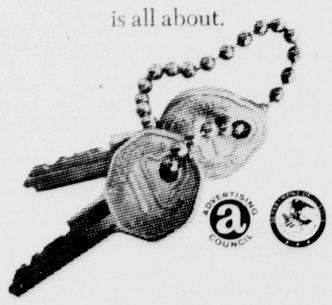
Leave the keys. An impulsive joyride in your car provides a 200 times better than average chance of accident.
An accident that may kill innocent people as well as the teenage joyrider. (There were nearly 100,000 accidents involving stolen cars last year.) But, with a little help from you, everyone might get through the weekend alive. That's part of what "having a good weekend" is all about.



Don't help a good boy go bad. Lock your car. Take your keys.

Nobody asked us for Superman

What they're looking for in 46 countries are teachers and builders and farmers. Geologists and youth workers and mechanics. Nurses and plumbers and librarians.

And just plain smart people who can help them learn how to build things and grow things and organize things.

Some people think a B.A. isn't enough for the Peace Corps. They think we want a lot of magic guys with big "S's" on their chests. It isn't true. You don't need a Ph.D. to help people help themselves. You don't even have to be a college graduate.

There are 15,110 Peace Corps jobs waiting to be done. And 800,000,000 people waiting for a little help. Your help.

If they wanted Superman, they would have asked for him.

As for what you can do about it, the answer is -- not a pea pickin' thing. Nobody ever solved a booze problem for a second party. Only when your husband realizes he has a problem can something be done about it. So, my dear, endure what you cannot cure.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder. (Isaiah 9:6)

PRAYER: Father, we thank Thee for the joy of Christmas. Day after day may it abide in our hearts, and Thy redeeming power make us disciples of peace in our troubled world. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

If You Were the Judge

Search for Narcotics On Woman Approved

Shapely Betsy had a fantastic figure, but she didn't have the brains or common sense to match it. A known narcotics user, she went on more trips than an airline hostess. One trip she took, however, without the aid of drugs was to Mexico. Upon her return, a customs inspector took one look into her glassy eyes and ordered her into another room where, in the presence of a doctor, she was ordered to strip.

As suspected, some of Betsy's shapely bulges did not belong to Betsy. On the contrary, they were formed by hidden packages of narcotics that Betsy was attempting to sneak into the United States.

Arrested and charged with smuggling, Betsy was indignant. "You can't just tell a girl to go into a room and strip her," she complained in court. "Aside from the fact that it's highly improper, it doesn't sound very constitutional either. Therefore, the search was illegal and the evidence found can't be used against me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the evidence to be used against Betsy?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! The judge held that a customs inspector cannot search a person's body on whim. But where there are facts present that clearly indicate smuggling, he may search a person's body in detail. In this case, there were sufficient facts present to warrant the search. Betsy was a known narcotics user, her eyes were glassy indicating the use of drugs, etc.

Tempt a teenager this weekend.

Leave your car unlocked.
Leave the keys. An impulsive joyride in your car provides a 200 times better than average chance of accident.
An accident that may kill innocent people as well as the teenage joyrider. (There were nearly 100,000 accidents involving stolen cars last year.) But, with a little help from you, everyone might get through the weekend alive. That's part of what "having a good weekend" is all about.

Don't help a good boy go bad.
Lock your car. Take your keys.
